SHOOTING OCCURS IN CIGAR FACTORY

Admitted Slayer Gives

First Time She Had Ever Held Gun in Her Hand.

Tall and handsome John D. Mayfield, captain of Fire Company No. 16, kissed his 41-year-old wife, Lucile, good-bye at their Park street home early yesterday morning. There had been no talk on this particular morning concerning 32-year-old Mrs. Lucile Dixon, a pretty cigarmaker, but there had on other mornings and Mrs. Mayfield was thinking about it.

A couple of hours later, at 10:40 o'clock to be exact, Mrs. Mayfield halted at the Blakely cigar factory on Crew street, near Glenn. There she encountered Frank Pullare, an employee, whom she told she wanted to buy some cigars and also to inspect the plant.

Pullare escorted her inside. There working at a bench was Lucile Dixon. Mrs. Mayfield led Mrs. Dixon into a hallway. Pullare, noting that the women knew each other, went on his way.

A short time later, Mrs. Dixon returned to her bench. In from the hallway came Mrs. Mayfield.

"I'm going to kill you," she shouted, to Mrs. Dixon.

With that three shots rang out. Mrs. Dixon was rushed to the Piedmont hospital, where she was pronounced dead on arrival. Only one of the three bullets took effect, but that was the fatal one.

Mrs. Mayfield later said it was the first time she ever held a pistol in her hand.

Radio Patrolmen J. A. Allen and Oscar Tyson arrived and immediately instituted a search for Mrs. Mayfield. They stayed at the factory a few minutes interviewing witnesses and then went to police headquarters to make their report. As they reached headquarters they met Mrs. Mayfield and her husband. She had called him at the fire station, told him of the killing and requested him to accompany her to the station.

U. S. Loses Battle Over Processing Tax

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The government's attempt to lift importations of foreign wool is being defeated by a three-judge federal court.

A decision signed by Judges Gunnar H. Nordbye, J. W. Molyneux and M. J. Joyce in the case involving Gold Medal Foods, Inc., subsidiary of General Foods, Inc., subsidiary of the federal authorities' plea to dissolve the temporary restraining order, but included a slap at the amendment to the AAA adopted at the last session of congress.

The amendment denied processors the right to recover any taxes already paid.

NEW TRIAL GIVEN TO HARVEY, SMITH

Government Evidence Insufficient, Judge Underwood Rules on Motion.

Holding the government's evidence insufficient "to connect the defendants with the crime," Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood yesterday ordered a new trial for Leland Harvey and Aubrey Smith, convicted this summer of robbing bank messengers in Rome.

Date of the new trial will be determined by the regular court calendar. Judge Underwood's order said: "The government's evidence failed to show any facts or circumstances to connect the defendants with the crime. It is necessary to have a new trial to determine the guilt or innocence of the defendants."

Positive evidence of reputable and unimpeached witnesses for defendants, the order said, showed Harvey and Smith were in Rome, Ill., "at the very time the crime was being committed."

The bank messengers were robbed on the morning of August 24, 1934. Judge Underwood said that assuming the government's evidence to be correct, Harvey and Smith would have had to come from Chicago to Rome, Ga., in a car in 21 hours.

"It is possible, but would have required some very fast traveling," the order said, continuing: "It hardly seems reasonable that defendants could have made such a trip from Illinois to Rome, Ga., in 21 hours."

SURPLUS TAX SETS AAA COTTON PRICE AT 10.90 CENTS

Latest Ruling Automatically Fixes New Rate on Ginnings at 5.45 Above Crop Allotment.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS. WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—Officials of the AAA today announced that 10.90 cents a pound had been determined as the average price of lint cotton on the ten designated spot cotton markets for a representative period, as the base for determining the rate of tax on the ginning of cotton under the Bankhead act. This determination by the secretary of agriculture, under the act, automatically fixes the new tax at 5.45 a pound of lint cotton. The new rate became effective yesterday.

The Bankhead act, which was continued in operation for the present crop year following a vote for continuance by 89.5 per cent of the producers who participated in the referendum last December, has been in operation since April 21, 1934.

Cotton produced in excess of the allotments under the act is subject to the ginning tax, which is 50 per cent of the average central market price of 7-8 inch middling spot cotton on the ten spot cotton markets for a representative period. The tax may not be

2 KILLED, 8 SHOT IN DOCK RIOTING

St. Charles Strikers Clash With Armed Guards in Longshoremen's Dispute

LAKE CHARLES, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The list of dead on the strike-torn waterfront battle here mounted to two tonight.

Louis Santon, of New Orleans, one of ten men wounded by bullets of International Longshoremen's Association strikers, died in a hospital late tonight.

Another man, identified as William J. Case, also of New Orleans, died earlier in the day when he was wounded in the fierce battle between pickets and special guards hired to protect non-I. L. A. workers on the docks.

The League of Nations, which was the cause of the disturbance, which blew in early today from the Caribbean, that observation lost track of it for a while.

Damage Not Heavy. A telegram to the Associated Press in Havana from Commander Cooke, commandant of the United States naval station at Guantanamo bay, this afternoon said:

"No known loss of life or personal injuries in this vicinity. No heavy property damage at naval station and none reported this vicinity. Maximum wind velocity at naval station 40 miles an hour."

Reports from the Belen observatory at noon said the center of the disturbance was still hovering over the middle of Oriente province.

Two Deaths in Jamaica. (Damage of the hurricane in Jamaica was estimated at $2,500,000. There were two deaths by drowning from the storm. Weather observers in Florida said they did not expect the storm to strike the United States mainland.)

Lines were down as far west as Camaguey. Winds and rains prevented search for other possible victims in ruins around Santiago. Many buildings fell in. The city faced the prospect of a night of darkness.

Large sections were flooded when the Gauto river overflowed its banks. Supplies of bread and milk were running low.

Santiago's only method of communication with the rest of Cuba was by radio.

First reports of the outbreak said the men who opened fire on the truck were concealed in the area east and southeast of the docks and had been firing intermittently throughout the afternoon.

Shortly after 4 o'clock officers reported the situation at the docks had quieted down.

The truck, reports stated, was manned by special port guards and was passing through a wooded section when the firing broke out.

Threat of European War Lessened But Duce Tightens Ethiopian Hold

Peace Parleys Unofficially Reported Going On in Rome, Paris and London as Two Italian Armies Drive Into North and South.

ROME, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The menace of war in Europe appeared to have lessened tonight, but fascist legions tightened their hold on Ethiopia.

Behind the scenes, diplomats carried on negotiations for a settlement of the African dispute.

Two Italian armies have driven their way into the north and south ends of Ethiopia. Military observers here said they expected steady advances soon until Premier Mussolini's troops take the 800-mile strip connecting Eritrea and Somaliland.

Peace parleys, it was unofficially stated, are going on in Rome, Paris and London. The way was smoothed for this by an officially confirmed "lessening of tension" between Britain and Italy.

In well-informed quarters the view was expressed that the withdrawal of some big units of the British fleet from the Mediterranean and Italy's reduction of her forces in Libya might result from the patching of the quarrel.

Sanctions seem less formidable to the Italians the nearer they approach. Published figures show that the fascists probably can get much of what they need by increasing trade with nations that are not members of the League of Nations and those that are against sanctions.

A "tightening of the belt" is already under way. Fascist officials are spreading the word to abolish luxuries, live more simply and use Italian goods.

The government today banned the

SELASSIE DENIES 'HORROR' METHODS

Emperor Says Italians Have Not Used Either Gas or Dum-Dum Bullets

By JAMES A. MILLS. (Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press.) ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 22.—Emperor Haile Selassie flatly denied to the Associated Press today reports published abroad that the Italian army had used either poison gas or dum-dum bullets in its invasion of his kingdom.

Although giving the lie to this report about his enemy, the little ruler, in an interview granted this correspondent, said the fascist invasion was "without a shadow of provocation."

He said he would be willing to discuss peace with Premier Mussolini "only when his soldiers get out of our country."

(Dr. William Hockman, American physician at Addis Ababa, Ill., was quoted in dispatches from Addis Ababa recently as saying he treated a soldier apparently wounded by dum-dum, or explosive, bullets.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch October 8 mentioned an unofficial report that Italians had used gas near the "Holy City" of Aksum.)

"Acceptable" Peace Basis. Asked precisely what peace would be acceptable, Haile Selassie replied: "I do not think this is the moment to discuss eventual peace terms. In any case, the whole dispute is in the hands of the League of Nations, which I am sure will see that, if peace comes, it will be just peace, leaving our sovereignty, territorial integrity and independence intact."

"Any other peace is not peace but stark confiscation."

Adding to his credit marks for the fight, the emperor flatly denied that the Italians ran their tanks into towns and villages in Ogaden province, killing the inhabitants by machine guns or crushing them under their tanks. He said he had heard this had been alleged abroad.

"Let us try if we may," he said, "to mitigate the inherent horrors of war by being frank and honest and giving our enemies credit where credit is due."

"Is not war terrible enough without investing it with such horrors?" He would not permit his own troops to use gas or dum-dum bullets, he said.

Admitting Italian planes have bombed many frontier towns, he said this had little effect on his troops, who carefully hid themselves in the ground.

"But," he declared, "what grieves me is that a considerable number of defenseless women and children have been killed by the bombs."

Haile Selassie said he was firm in his position to reject one-sided peace terms because, he asserted, the Italian armies have scarcely denied Ethiopia's national defenses and have not yet tested the mettle of Ethiopia's troops. Their morale, he claimed, was never higher.

Day's Developments In Ethiopian Crisis

SIR SAMUEL HOARE CLARIFIES POSITION ON WAR SANCTIONS

Foreign Secretary's Speech Is Signal for Vigorous Opposition Attacks, Creating Keynote for Impending Elections

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 23. (UP)—Twenty thousand Ethiopians and 6,000 Italians have been killed or wounded so far in the Italo-Ethiopian war, the News-Chronicle's correspondent at Addis Ababa estimated today.

In addition, he said, between 200 and 300 women and children have been killed or wounded.

Two-thirds of the Italian casualties have occurred among native soldiers. Ras Siyoum's Ethiopian forces on the northern front have suffered the heaviest casualties.

There Is Still Time for an Honorable and Acceptable Agreement in East Africa, He Asserts.

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A new British peace call to Premier Mussolini was sounded in the house of commons today when parliament began a three-day debate upon the international situation, preliminary to dissolution and the national elections November 14.

Striking a definite conciliatory note, Sir Samuel Hoare, foreign secretary, summed up the Italo-Ethiopian situation with assurances that sanctions to be taken against Italy were economic and not military.

He pleaded there is still time to work out an honorable and acceptable African peace agreement.

Hoare's speech caused vigorous opposition attacks upon government policies, led by Major Clement Richard Atlee, laborite, and Sir Herbert Samuel, liberal, which furnished a keynote for the election, expected to be fought out largely on international issues.

Not Fascist Quarrel. Reaffirming British friendship for Italy, Hoare declared there was no quarrel with fascism, noted Italy is still a member of the League and said there is still "a breathing spell" left before the application of economic pressure begins.

"Cannot this eleven-hour change be so used as to make it unnecessary to proceed further along this unattractive road of economic action?"

Florida Canal Bonds Win Sweeping Victory

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 22. (AP)—A sweeping victory for the right of way bond issue in Florida's canal district was assured tonight on the basis of returns from 128 of the 158 precincts in the six counties.

The total was 14,663 for the bonds and only 539 against.

In Duval county 10,018 voted for the issue and 330 against.

Under a constitutional amendment adopted in 1930 bond issues carry in Florida only when 50 per cent of the qualified freeholder vote part in an election and vote by simple majority for the issue.

In this case, there were 20,075 property owners qualified to vote, making the necessary total 10,038. Far more than that number cast votes.

BUTCHER'S ADVOCATE SEES MEAT SHORTAGE

Magazine Reports Big Drop of Food Stocks in United States.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(P)—Meat food stocks in the United States were shown by the meat industry to be at a materially lower level today than at the World War period of 1916-17.

Surveying the situation, the Butcher's Advocate, trade weekly for the retail meat industry, found the United States facing a possible meat shortage and expressed the conclusion there should be a "direct reversal of the administration's policy of curtailment."

The drop in packing and storage house stocks mounted to more than 272,122,000 pounds in pork and 83,414,000 pounds in beef between 1916 and 1935. In live animals, the drop in cattle amounted to about 6,000,000 head, and in hogs more than 22,000,000 head.

"Comparable world-wide situation 1916 and 1935," the magazine stated, "has given the Advocate the reason for comparing available meat supplies as to show the unpreparedness of the United States from a meat food standpoint with war clouds hovering as they did in 1916."

"Aside from the restless international condition the Advocate survey clearly shows that the government's policy of curtailing meat food production has gone beyond what it ever set out to do. The situation is one of grave importance from a domestic standpoint alone."

The figures in the magazine said, were from the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

HELENA RELIEVED OF EARTH SHOCKS

City Begins Beating Back After Tremors Cease Terrifying Citizens.

HELENA, Mont., Oct. 22.—(P)—This shaken capital, relieved by the diminishing intensity and frequency of earthquakes which continued 10 days and took two lives, started beating back today.

Only light shocks were felt today. The last substantial enough to register on the Weather Bureau's instruments and recorded shortly after noon. It caused no damage or alarm.

Aid for the needy among 150 homeless families was offered freely. The spirit of the historic old gold mining camp again asserted itself. Bricks began to fly and the sound of hammers rang through broken structures.

How long it would take to restore Helena to normal business and home life was uncertain, but the estimated $2,500,000 property damage indicated a long task ahead.

The American Red Cross and local relief agencies pooled resources to afford immediate aid to the homeless and those who fled their homes, fearing to return during the continuation of shocks.

Heating of refuge tents became a problem, but 200 quivering victims banded in national forest sleeping bags and blankets at Cooney camp, where in comparative comfort, despite a brisk wintry wind.

He Smiles Here, But Hasn't Seen Judge Yet

Motorcycle Patrolman W. E. Whitten, left, is shown as he booked a case against Jack Strouss, secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, for traffic law violation. The case was unique in that Strouss asked that the case be booked against him after he realized he was an offender. Staff photo.

Strouss Breaks Auto Law, Requests Charges Be Docketed Against Him

Chief T. O. Sturdivant has been subjected to many importunities, many requests and many demands during his tenure of office, but the strangest and most unique one in his 26-year career as a member of the Atlanta police department was presented yesterday.

Jack Strouss, genial secretary of the Atlanta Motor Club, violated a traffic law at Parkway drive and North avenue, and was unconscious of the fact until it was called to his attention by a companion.

A policeman's whistle sounded as they rounded the corner, but Strouss was intent on negotiation of the street and failed to stop.

When he realized he had violated the law, he appeared at the police station, and asked Chief Sturdivant which of the officers was trying to reach him.

Sturdivant explained that he did not know, and that Strouss related the traffic offense. He asked Sturdivant to do his duty as an officer and book a case against him.

"I've had a lot of requests to be let off in my time," Sturdivant said in a reminiscent mood, "but this is the first time I ever had a man to come down here to ask that a case be made against him. It's kind of an operation and that kind of an attitude, however, which will make Atlanta streets safe."

less than 5 cents per pound of lint cotton.

The AAA also announced that the transfer of cotton tax exemption certificates issued under the act to producers has been lowered from 5 cents to 4 cents per pound effective October 21. The exemption certificates permit the spinning and sale tax free of the quantity of cotton represented by them. Producers holding certificates in excess of their actual production may transfer them to other producers who have grown cotton in excess of their allotment.

Pool to Close.

The change in the price of certificates necessitates the immediate closing of the special surplus cotton tax exemption certificate pool opened several months ago for the transfer of certificates between cotton producers and the opening of a new pool. Sales by the existing pool were terminated Saturday and the pool will be liquidated as soon as return of sales are completed and the operations have been audited. Producers participating in the special pool did so under trust agreements stipulating that they would receive 5 cents per pound on their pro-rata shares of the pool.

The existing pool would have closed on November 7 under the terms of the trust agreements. E. L. Deal, certificate pool manager, said that approximately 40 percent of the certificates placed in the current pool had been sold and that the 191,587 participating producers will be offered an immediate opportunity to transfer their pro-rata shares of the unsold certificates to the regular 1935 national surplus cotton tax exemption certificate pool about to be opened, from which certificates will be sold at the new transfer price of 4 cents.

Sales To Be Pro-rated.

Otherwise, a producer's pro-rata share of the unsold certificates will be sold at the new transfer price of 4 cents.

The national pool which operated in 1934 distributed $18,842,161 to 402,074 participating producers in 18 cotton-growing states. In turn the producers who bought certificates from the national pool contributed approximately $6,680,000 which was the difference between the price of the certificates available by the pool and the 1934-35 crop year. That pool was conducted at a cost slightly greater than 1 percent of the gross cash receipts, the expense being borne by the participants.

Producers now holding a surplus of certificates were advised by Mr. Deal that they could transfer their surplus certificates to the new pool. The new pool will not exceed 200,000 bales. Transfer of certificates between producers will be permitted in the new pool if the producers do not live in the same state.

Sanity Hearing Set FOR HOWARD PIERSON

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 22.—(P)—A jury was completed today to determine the sanity of Howard Pierson, 21, confessed slayer of his parents, William Pierson, associate justice of the state supreme court, and Mrs. Pierson.

The pale, slight youth listened calmly as attorneys questioned prospective jurors to detect any signs of prejudice. Two days were required to select the jury. Testimony will start tomorrow.

If Pierson is found sane, he will be tried for the murder of his parents, who were shot to death in a country lane near the home at Austin, where he was confined in an institution.

GEN. ADOLPHUS GREELY BURIED IN ARLINGTON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(P)—In sharp contrast to the barren area in which he won fame, Major General Adolphus W. Greely, 81, was buried today in colorful Arlington cemetery.

The soldier who with a party of 25 penetrated in 1881 to the then "host moon" and returned with but seven alive, was eulogized at funeral services in All Souls Unitarian church.

A solemn booming of 13 guns marked entrance to the procession in Arlington, where military services were completed.

Among the honorary pallbearers was Brigadier General David L. Rainard, retired, and a survivor of the bitter arctic experience.

Officers Named.

CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—(P)—The conference of embalmers examining boards of the United States elected John S. Gray, of Minneapolis, Ore., president today. The National Funeral Supply Salesman's Association elected Malvern H. Hayes, of Wise, N. C., a vice president.

Capacity Audience Hears Kreisler
In Brilliant Recital at Fox Theater

Fritz Kreisler, one of the most famous violinists the world has known, dedicated the beginning of a new era in Atlanta's art world with the opening of the All-Star Concert Series in the Fox theater last evening.

At least each of the $2,000-odd music lovers crowding the immense Fox beyond standing room must have felt that it was the dawn of a new era in the concert history of the south, for, indeed, it was a thrilling occasion.

The new setting of the concert makes a happy location, and when an audience so large as that last evening responds so wholeheartedly to artistic achievement, it is recorded as a memorable event. Probably no musical event in the south has ever attracted such a tremendous audience.

The house was filled. Over 250 seats on the stage, and 200 more in the orchestra pit were taken, and more than 200 bought standing room.

Kreisler was inspired Tuesday evening—this was plain. Certainly the true artist is always inspired when he interprets the masters, but there are degrees of inspiration. Kreisler experienced the gamut of artistic inspiration and shared it with his audience in an incomparably fine program. There was a wistful and sympathetic line of contact between artist and audience, and each responded to the other's appreciation.

Kreisler is the supreme master of his instrument. Through it he speaks with a limitless variety of emotions. Dramatic, humorous, tender, passionate, brilliant, ethereal, and even again mysterious and intriguing, he used his store of artistic expressions to play on the heart-strings of his audience. Opening the program with Tartini's "Sonata, G minor" (The Devil's Trill), taking its descriptive title from its extreme intricacies, he tossed off its difficulties with the ease of artistic skill. "Arabian Nights" (in the style of Paganini), "Chanson Louis XIII et Pavane" (in the style of Louis Couperin), "Variations on a Theme by Corelli" (in the style of Tartini), and "Gypsy Caprice." Here we had Kreisler the dual-genius—composer and artist—a combination that evoked clamorous audience endorsement. There was also his own arrangement of Ravel's "Habanera," and "La fille aux cheveux de lin," Debussy-Hartmann. At the close of the program he recalled Kreisler's scribbles level. An encore was demanded, "Rondino in E flat major," Beethoven.

The last half of the program featured Kreisler's own compositions, presenting "Furioso" and "Allegro" (in the style of Paganini); "Chanson Louis XIII et Pavane" (in the style of Louis Couperin); "Variations on a Theme by Corelli" (in the style of Tartini), and "Gypsy Caprice." ## CLUBWOMEN TO AID IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN safety campaign, launched at the Georgia convention of Lions at Albany, and a DeKalb county campaign for safety was initiated under the direction of Harold Byrd Post, American Legion, Chief of Police George S. Sword, of Decatur, also announced his department will begin at once a drive against one-light drivers and those who have no tail lights on their machines. He asserted that all traffic laws will be enforced rigidly, but that special attention will be given to proper lighting of vehicles.

T. H. Huff, of the division office of the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company, delivered 750 pledges at The Constitution office during the day. Employees of the company have entered the drive with remarkable unanimity, he said, and was gratified at the spontaneous support the safety campaign is getting at the hands of telephone company employees.

Thirty-five additional pledges were signed by employees of the Atlanta Linen Supply Company, and 36 more Atlantans visited The Constitution building during the day to sign individual pledges.

R. H. Huff, of Hapeville, suggested that governors should be made mandatory for machines in an effort to reduce speeding, and advocated road patrol to curb those who refuse to drive safely and sanely.

Mrs. John L. Moore, who is traveling through nine states, asked The Constitution to dispatch her stickers to Louisville, where she will be for the next few days. She sent a pledge in, having found one in a recent issue of The Constitution. She called on all good citizens to reaffirm their sign the pledge and to live up to it.

It was pointed out yesterday that motor signals by motorists before making turns are important as accident prevention measures. The signals are shown graphically in the diagrams interspersed herein.

Women's club members pointed out that in 1927 they co-operated with the Georgia Safety Council in sponsoring a driving conference for women.

The conference was under the general chairmanship of Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, then secretary of the federation, and Mrs. Riley, who is now president of the American Automobile Association.

Club members asserted it was "highly appropriate that under the leadership of Mrs. Wolfe, the federation should publicly reaffirm its position deploring continued sacrifice of life to the demons of speed and carelessness and needless waste of property."

ROBINSON SUSPECT FREED IN MISSISSIPPI

BELZONI, Miss., Oct. 22.—(P)—A well-dressed young man who was detained here yesterday by local officers "on suspicion" that he was Thomas H. Announcement that the man detained was not Robinson was made at New Orleans by David W. Magee, agent in charge of the Bureau of Investigation, United States Department of Justice. Magee said that neither the fingerprints nor the color of the eyes matched those of Robinson.

Edward C. Akin, Juror Number 1, Drawn First for Court at Newnan

If Edward C. Akin, of Route B, Griffin, plays the numbers, here's a hunch for him.

Yesterday in federal district court in Atlanta, they were drawing the first grand jury to act in the first term of the new year.

General Charles H. Cox, United States marshal, stuck his arm down in the shiny new jury box and drew out the first name.

It was No. 1—Edward C. Akin, Route B, Griffin.

John Dean Steward, clerk of the court, exclaimed:

"It wouldn't happen again in a million years."

So, Mr. Akin can tell everyone that his number—No. 1—was the first drawn for the first grand jury in the first term of the new year.

The term will open November 4 and there are about 40 cases on the docket.

The other grand jurors drawn were:

George Mallory Strickland, Concord; Howard Pope, R. F. D. Roopville; Proffert Heard (colored), LaGrange; Bailey M. Murphy, Felton; C. Glenn Harris, Route 1, Franklin; Hardy S. Johnson, Newnan; G. A. Milner, Williamson; Arthur D. Boone, Moreland; Sim J. Steinbach, Carrollton; Charles Boyd.

SMITH, EINSTEIN
HIT NAZI TACTICS

Former New York Governor and Famous Scientist Attack Hitler.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(P)—Prefacing his remarks with the declaration that "Germany is becoming a barren nation, intellectually, culturally and scientifically under Hitler," former Governor Alfred E. Smith tonight appealed for financial aid for non-Aryan Christian and political refugees from Germany.

He was joined in his plea by Dr. Albert Einstein, the scientist, at a dinner held under the joint auspices of the American Christian committee for German refugees and the emergency committee in aid of political refugees from Naziism.

I am informed that at this very moment I am speaking, 2,500 German refugees are on the verge of starvation," the former New York governor said. "Centers now operating and serving these refugees in Europe must be supplied quickly with money. They need aid, or will be forced to discontinue their work."

Dr. Einstein said that German fascism is directed most "against my Jewish brothers."

"The reason given is to purify the Aryan race in Germany. As a matter of fact, no such Aryan race exists. Most of the myth of same has been invented solely to motivate the persecution and robbery of the Jews."

Lawrence Tibbett was quoted today as saying:

"The neighbors themselves are making so much noise that I intend to complain to the owners of the apartment building about it tonight."

"These 'quiet' neighbors have installed a maid to sing and yell her head off, merely in hopes of having me stop practice. I sound-proofed my walls, and they

TALMADGE PREDICTS COURT WILL VOID AAA

Governor Is Principal Speaker at Crisp County Birthday.

By GEORGE BURT, Associated Press Staff Writer.

CORDELE, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP) Governor Talmadge, speaking to an audience at the Crisp county fair, predicted today that "the United States supreme court will treat the AAA just like it did the NRA." He urged that farmers not grow too much cotton "when they knock out the AAA."

The chief executive, principal speaker at a program celebrating the 30th anniversary of the creation of Crisp county, was applauded as he assailed the national administration's farm program.

"When they take that AAA off, don't plant cotton in every fence corner and if you see any doctors and lawyers starting to cotton-farm, just stop that," the Governor said.

He assailed the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's cotton control program and said importations of crops controlled under the AAA had increased since the curtailment plan went into effect.

Speaking from a truck in the fair grounds, the Governor and his audience talked at each other.

He called for a show of hands as to the number of farmers who had grown cotton in excess of Bankhead bill allotments.

Quite a number of hands went up, said comment from the hand-raisers.

The Governor said he had filed a personal suit in federal court attacking the legality of the Bankhead cotton control law, but "when I saw it would take too long to get it through the courts, I filed a suit in behalf of the state in the United States supreme court."

The relief administration also was criticized for "putting folks on the receiving line."

"I know some folks on the receiving end of all this foolishness are going to town when I talk like this, but that sort of foolishness is going to beat those brain trusters so fast next year you can't catch them when they run out of office."

Predicting defeat of the national administration next year, the Governor said:

"I deny that five billion dollars can elect any man."

He urged voters to "talk to congressmen about getting that $4,800,000,000 out of the nation's pockets."

Confederate Flag To Fly Today From Fort Pulaski, Near Savannah.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP) For the first time since its capture by the Union forces 73 years ago, Fort Pulaski, historic Confederate post on Cockspur island, will tomorrow fly the Confederate flag.

Permission to unfurl the flag over the post during the visit of delegates to the state convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy here today was given today by the National Park Service in whose custody the fort has been placed as a national monument.

The permission was received in a wire to Ralston B. Lattimore, assistant historian of the park service, in response to an earlier telegram in which Lattimore had requested authority to raise the Confederate colors.

The flag under which the gray forces fought will be wafted in the wind beside the United States flag on a pole on the parade ground in the enclosure of the old fort.

Opened Last Night.

The fortieth annual convention of the Daughters opened here tonight with the opening exercises, during which representatives of the city, the county and the state were present.

The convention, which is to continue through Thursday evening, will hear reports from various of its officers, and discuss work in historical, educational and other activities sponsored by the organization.

Mrs. Frank A. Dennis, of Eatonton, first vice president of the Daughters, is scheduled to become president of the organization when officers are elected at the annual meeting here Thursday.

Mrs. Dennis is the only announced candidate so far for the office. However, a sharp contest is developing over the election of vice presidents, particularly for the office now held by Mrs. Dennis.

Tonight's program consisted of welcoming exercises, during which representatives of the city, the county and the state were present.

The relief administration also was criticized for "putting folks on the receiving line."

"I know some folks on the receiving end of all this foolishness are going to town when I talk like this, but that sort of foolishness is going to beat those brain trusters so fast next year you can't catch them when they run out of office."

Predicting defeat of the national administration next year, the Governor said:

"I deny that five billion dollars can elect any man."

LAVAL SEEKS CLARITY IN DUCE'S PEACE PLAN

French Premier Defends His Action in Borrowing for Arms Budget.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(P)—Premier Pierre Laval was said in authoritative quarters tonight to be seeking a clarification of Premier Mussolini's views on settlement of the Ethiopian war before submitting them to London.

The premier, meanwhile, retorted to left wing critics of the government for borrowing for a special arms budget by defending his deflationary decree laws as a protection of the franc against devaluation.

"Advocates of devaluation," he told the chamber of deputies finance committee, should not complain, for they are unable to gauge the difficulties their policy would bring.

Laval said his peace-making efforts "will succeed" because "the present situation cannot help but improve."

At a cabinet session he reviewed his peace efforts. Most of the meeting was devoted to internal political and financial issues.

Decrees giving the government strict control over public demonstrations and the private possession of arms were announced.

and Aksum he described as being like "armed marauders entering an empty, undefended house. The inhabitants had long since left on the orders of the government in order to preserve the towns from destruction."

Predicts Foes' Defeat.

Asserting the Italians have not demonstrated any outstanding military strategy and have not met the main Ethiopian forces in their mountain strongholds, he said it was there the fascist would meet defeat.

"They shall not pass," he declared. "These words are written on the hearts of our soldiers."

"We have sufficient arms, ammunition and money to carry on if Mussolini refuses to listen to the collective warnings of the nations of the world," said Haile Selassie. "We will fight the struggle to the end with every prospect of success."

Concluding the interview, the emperor said up to the present neither Italy, France, Great Britain nor the League of Nations had offered him any peace proposals, directly or indirectly.

When this correspondent left the palace through lines of waiting warriors who begged the emperor for guns, he had the impression the king felt himself stronger and Ethiopia more invulnerable than in previous interviews. He appeared prepared to accept all of Premier Mussolini's challenges calmly and resolutely.

Bids Troops Good-bye.

Earlier today Haile Selassie gave final instructions to Minister of War Ras Mulugueta, who then left for Dessye, about 15 miles northwest of Addis Ababa, to command a great concentration of troops there. The troops are expected to move to the northern front after Haile Selassie goes to Dessye next week.

Eight thousand crack warriors started their march to Dessye this morning to join the concentration which is an attempt to avert what the Ethiopians believe is an Italian plan to join their northern and southern armies at that point.

Piloted by John C. Robinson, Chicago negro aviator, the emperor made his first plane flight in several years in order to say good-bye to the imperial guardsmen. After circling over the thrilled soldiers several times, the emperor waved his farewells from the sky, as the soldiers saluted, then returned to the palace.

Egypt Being 'Squeezed Into Battle' By British, Says Ex-Premier Sidky

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 22.—(P)—Former Premier Ismail Pasha Sidky, one of the leading statesmen in the Near East, in an interview today, drew a contrast between British attacks upon Italian policy and the way the British government "is treating Egypt."

Expressing alarm over the danger of the elaborate military and naval defense measures Britain is taking in Egypt, Sidky said:

"Sir Samuel Hoare has declared to the League that he placed very highly the rights of little countries, that he wanted to give his aid to guarantee their independence and liberty."

"Is it then not paradoxical, since there is not one logical reason to prevent Egypt from exercising its independence, which is recognized in the highest places, that such declarations were made unless it is to be supposed they were simply playing to the gallery?"

Sidky, whose "iron hand" government lasted longer than any other since the World War, said he believed Britain and Italy are squeezing Egypt "into the field of battle."

The danger of British defense measures here is that they are destroying Egyptian-Italian friendship dating from the Roman empire era, he said.

"I know Britain has an excuse. She considers Egypt should be represented in this serious crisis only by the chief of her government."

"We do not ask anything extraordinary. We only ask that we be allies of the British—small allies, certainly, but precious allies if one considers that sincerity is better—considering our geographical situation—than allies with the biggest armies."

"Here we do not feel any danger from Italy in Libya," said the former premier. "Italian intervention in Ethiopia does not affect seriously our interests in the Sudan. The Blue Nile—interests which are exaggerated. In this matter we received all kinds of assurances."

Two Alleged Rum Runners Taken
After Long Race in Auto, Afoot

A 15-mile automobile race wound up in a 300-yard footrace through a DeKalb county briar patch late yesterday with the result that two apprehended rum-runners, still bubbling with enthusiasm, were hauled before United States Commissioner Ed S. Griffith by two federal alcohol tax agents, all four of them so covered with briars and brambles that they looked as though they were ambushed for a duck hunt.

Ben K. Tatum, 19, of Dawson county, and Wright D. Boring, 21, of Atlanta, were the youths captured with 85 gallons of liquor. Boring confessed to Judge Griffith that he owned the liquor.

C. C. Plampan and W. A. Crow were the revenue agents. The told Judge Griffith that Boring, who was driving, refused to stop at their command and tore through DeKalb county along the Cheshire Bridge road, en route to Atlanta at a 75-mile clip.

Just beyond the Fulton county line, Boring skidded to a halt and he and Tatum leaped out of the car and streaked across a field. The officers overtook them.

Judge Griffith ordered both boys held in $1,000 bonds each for the January term of court.

Eleven hundred gallons of liquor were seized, five men arrested and a sedan and truck taken in a raid at Augusta, Ga., yesterday, it was announced.

Two suspected plotters were placed in solitary confinement.

Feidelson Assumes New Duties
In Regional Labor Offices Here

Charles N. Feidelson, former associate editor of the Birmingham, Ala., Age-Herald, yesterday became regional director of the National Labor Relations Board.

He succeeds Frank E. Coffey, resigned.

"I am very glad to be back home, particularly since I am permitted to be a participant in the great enterprise of giving enlightened labor relations a firm foundation among my own people," Feidelson said as he sat at his desk for the first time.

He was formerly an attorney and juvenile judge at Savannah, Ga., and came here from Washington when he was an administrative assistant with the Works Progress Administration.

Feidelson asserted the recent national relations act vests powers in the board not formerly possessed by it.

"It necessarily takes time to work this out," he said, "but we are ready to proceed with active enforcement of the law."

He added the two primary functions of the board are prevention of unfair labor practices and certification of the names of representatives designated by employees for collective bargaining.

He hopes to "secure an understanding of these principles throughout the country," he added.

Unfair labor practices, with which the first function of the board deals, he listed as follows:

1. Interference, restraint or coercion of employees in the exercise of their right to organize and bargain collectively.

2. Domination or interference with the formation or administration of any labor organization.

3. Discrimination in regard to hire or tenure of employment or any term or condition of employment to encourage or discourage membership in any labor organization.

4. Refusal to bargain collectively with the representatives of the employees.

5. Coercion of employees, he said, can be made either after an election of the employees or upon the basis of other evidence.

The Atlanta region includes Georgia, Tennessee, North and South Carolina and the northern part of Alabama.

assigned Detectives W. B. Martin and D. L. Taylor to the case.

Attorney Summoned.

Ellis B. Barrett, attorney for the Mayfield family, was summoned hurriedly from the courthouse where he was trying a case and through him the fire fighter's wife made a statement.

"Mrs. Mayfield asked me to tell the reporters that she had been taunted long enough by Mrs. Dixon," the lawyer said. "Just this last weekend, Mrs. Dixon called her from Asheville and taunted her about taking her husband. It's emotional insanity."

Captain Mayfield, who used to be a preacher, and who has lectured several times at Mayor Key's Bible class, was standing by.

"Both my wife and I had warned Mrs. Dixon to let me alone," he chimed in. "It's the old, old story."

Detectives Martin and Taylor later reported to Chief Poole. "Another eternal triangle. And the angles are set like Greek temples. One is in the morgue, a second in jail and the third, the cause of it all, on the outside wondering why he got himself into this mess."

Pythagoras didn't live long enough to work out a theorem for this kind.

Detectives Martin and Taylor were slightly wrong. The obtuse angle, Captain Mayfield, at his own request was in jail with his wife, remaining there to comfort her. He didn't go home until late last night.

Hoare said the present "worship of force" in many parts of the world compelled Britain, "in the interests of peace to look to our defenses. The crisis we are confronted with is not a crisis of a few days or weeks."

This touched off bitter debate against rearmament led by Atlee, who took the view Britain had never disarmed.

Sino-Jap Crisis.

He said he considered the present dispute largely due to failure to act against Japan. "When they allowed Japan to get away with it, that encouraged Hitler. They stood by and allowed Austria democracy to go down."

George Lansbury, who lately resigned from the labor leadership because he disapproved of sanctions, said he hoped Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, who speaks tomorrow, would tell the country what the nations are against whom Britain must rearm.

"Before we set about rearming we should call a conference to settle disputes from which war might arise and reconsider the whole settlement enshrined in the Versailles treaty," he said.

Other speakers included Geoffrey Mander, liberal, who said he saw no reason why, if the League collapses, Germany, "with her increasingly great military strength, should not march into Memel, Danzig, Austria and, in course of time, into France as well."

WILLIFORD ON TRIAL ON PERJURY CHARGE

Atlanta Attorney Presents Numerous Motions, Delaying Jury Selection.

Ben C. Williford, Atlanta lawyer, went on trial yesterday in Fulton superior court on five charges of perjury.

After hours of legal wrangling instituted by Williford's lawyers, a jury was drawn during the afternoon and W. H. Biggers, notary public, state at large, was called as the first witness by the state.

Judge James C. Davis, of the Stone Mountain circuit, who is presiding over one criminal division of Fulton superior court, overruled Williford's demurrer and motion to quash the charges against him which was filed several days ago.

The judge also overruled a bill of exceptions presented by Williford's lawyers immediately after Judge Davis' ruling on the demurrer. The indicted lawyer then made a demand that his bill of exceptions be heard by the supreme court but again Judge Davis overruled him and ordered the case to trial.

Williford demanded formal arraignment and the entire indictment, detailing the five counts charging that he had perjured himself in a legal procedure, was read in court.

Many Strikes Taken. In selecting a jury the state struck its allotted ten. The defense struck 18. A demand by the defense to be allowed a strike on each count against Williford was also overruled by Judge Davis.

Williford is defended by Robert B. Giles and Miss Lillie Scheck. His wife, Mrs. Ben C. Williford, is aiding in the defense.

Solicitor John Boykin and Assistant Solicitors Ed A. Stephens and Quincy Arnold are prosecuting for the state.

In addition to the five counts on which he is being tried, Williford is under indictment for subornation of perjury in connection with an alleged fake damage claim against the Georgia Power Company.

The defense moved yesterday afternoon for a postponement of the perjury trial on the grounds that five witnesses residing in Tift county were necessary to the defense and Williford declared that he did not have money to bring them to Atlanta for the trial.

Tift County Witnesses. Judge Davis dispatched two deputy sheriffs to Tift county yesterday afternoon to bring the required witnesses to court this morning. Those named in subpoenas issued by Charles Harrisfield, deputy clerk, were Dr. W. H. Rowan, N. L. Courney and C. A. Baker, of Tift; T. W. Bowen, of Brookfield, Ga., and Mitch Williford, of Sycamore, Ga.

Court was recessed at 5:30 o'clock.

RULING ON TECHWOOD HITS CITY FINANCES

McCarl Won't Let Government Pay for Police and Fire Protection.

J. R. McCarl, comptroller general of the United States, yesterday refused to pay $9,200 a year recommended by Secretary Harold L. Ickes, PWA administrator, for police, fire, sanitary and educational facilities, which Atlanta will be expected to furnish for Techwood and University low-cost housing projects, under construction here.

The ruling was made after Ickes addressed a letter to McCarl suggesting the payment for the services in lieu of taxes, which cannot be collected because the projects are owned by the federal government.

Mayor Key has insisted that payments be made for the services, reciting that they will cost the municipality much money and that the city will lose tax payments heretofore made on the properties.

It was thought that the issue had been adjusted definitely when Ickes agreed that the city was entitled to a service charge to be paid voluntarily by the federal government.

NEW LAW SUGGESTED IN HUSBAND TANGLE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—A new law to permit federal grants to states and counties in lieu of property taxes was forecast in some quarters today as a possible solution for the Techwood and University low-cost housing project.

Comptroller General McCarl ruled today that the government could not make a grant of $9,000 annually to the city of Atlanta to offset the loss of real estate taxes from a federal-owned housing project. Federal property is held to be exempt from local taxation.

In anticipation of the demands of local governments for tax returns from suburban housing projects under construction or planned by the Resettlement Administration, officials of that agency yesterday were revealed to be seeking a solution to the problem.

The proposal to pay a grant to local governments to replace the property taxes was one of several under consideration. Administration officials said that added rentals might be collected to provide the fund for the grants.

With this suggestion vetoed in the comptroller-general's ruling today, Resettlement Administration officials said privately that they expected a bill would be introduced early in the next session of congress to authorize federal grants.

Officials predicted that pressure for such a law would come from the states and counties and not from the administration.

Some Resettlement Administration officials said it possible that corporations may be formed by occupants of the suburban housing projects, in which case the property would be subject to the same realty taxes as any incorporated town.

The Atlanta project is nearest to completion of the 47 in the PWA housing division's $330,000,000 slum clearance program. PWA officials said they had received several inquiries from local authorities in other communities, but that most had been too pleased at getting allocations to quarrel over the tax question.

Recalling that the city of Atlanta already had forced contractors on the two projects there to pay for their water, officials suggested that the city might want to settle the problem by buying the projects.

Reservations for 1,000 citizens of Fannin county, expected here on Roosevelt day, were requested yesterday by J. E. Fannin county, on the borderlines of Georgia, Tennessee and North Carolina, will send a motorcade of 150 motor cars. Mr. Davis was elected president and J. R. Hayes, secretary of the club, at a meeting called Saturday by J. M. Poston, chairman of the county democratic executive committee.

Grand Jury Committee Investigates Worthy's Charges Against Boykin

Probe Delaying Publication of Special Presentments; Tuttle Acting as Solicitor-General Pro Tem.; Court Clerks Testify Before Jurors.

Investigation of charges against Solicitor-General John A. Boykin is delaying publication of special presentments by the September-October grand jury. The Constitution learned yesterday.

A report prepared by H. G. King, chairman of a nine-man committee assigned to investigate the county commission, the superior courts and the office of the solicitor-general, is scheduled to be presented to the full grand jury Thursday, if probe of charges made against Boykin by Sam Worthy, who is serving 8 to 12 years on conviction of charges in connection with the fake damage claim racket, is completed by that time.

Worthy recently in superior court filed affidavits that Boykin perjured himself in the Worthy trial and it is mandatory that the accusation be investigated by the grand jury.

Judge Hugh M. Dorsey appointed Elbert P. Tuttle, widely-known Atlanta lawyer, as solicitor-general pro tem, to conduct the case in the grand jury room.

It was understood that Tuttle told grand jurors yesterday that there were still some points to be cleared up and that he would attempt to be ready to present the case Thursday or Friday.

King's report must wait until these charges are investigated before it can be turned over to the full jury, it was said.

It was authoritatively reported yesterday that King's report on the county commission was unanimously adopted Monday by the nine-man committee and the ex-officio member, Foreman Walter S. Pharr. That part of the investigation was understood to be definitely closed until the report is returned as special presentments by the grand jury.

Meanwhile, another committee headed by Chairman J. T. Lumpkin, continued investigation of the office of the clerk of the superior court, and another group, headed by J. G. Barrow, planned further work in the probe of the city police department.

Several clerks in the office of J. V. Simmons, clerk of the court, have been subpoenaed to appear before the committee, it was understood.

This committee was said to have been appointed last Friday by Foreman Pharr during the regular session of the grand jury. Whether or not it will be ready for report Thursday at the special meeting of the jury was not known.

Chairman Barrow and his committee are scheduled to hold meetings almost every day until the final presentments are prepared, it was said.

There are still a number of witnesses to be questioned and a number of leads to be followed. Numerous "tips" have been given the jury-men by volunteer witnesses who appeared before the committee in answer to Chairman Barrow's request for information concerning protection allegedly furnished bootleggers and lottery operators by city police.

A man listed as Johnnie Hatcher, who was said to have been the person involved in the row which caused the demolition of O. H. Pendley, former secretary to Police Chief T. O. Sturdivant, was arrested yesterday by city police on a charge of being drunk and was said to have been subpoenaed by the grand jury, but Chairman Barrow said last night that Hatcher would not be questioned.

FOR SUFFERING HUMANITY

While the condition of the city's finances are such as to make it imperative that none but the most urgent obligations be assumed, the action of city council in voting approval of a moral obligation to repay, over a period of five years, the sum of $55,000 to be borrowed from a group of leading citizens for improvements and expansions at Steiner clinic will be generally approved.

Steiner clinic has become one of the leading institutions for the treatment of cancer in the country.

The service it is rendering in the fight against what has become mankind's greatest enemy is second to none in the country, despite the fact that its quarters are so inadequate that patients are now in beds in corridors, halls and storage rooms.

The building in which the clinic is housed was constructed with the view of a bed capacity of 12.

Through the utilization of every possible foot of space, there are now 35 beds, but there is still a large waiting list of patients who should be housed in the institution to receive the most efficient treatment and care.

The new wing to be erected with the $55,000 advanced by a patriotic and humanitarian group of Atlan-tans, and a $45,000 grant from the federal government, would increase the normal bed patients to 64, with room for still further beds by crowding in case of emergency.

With the city's finances in the strained condition in which they are, the wisdom of calling upon it for funds to meet a temporary emergency would be questionable, be the fellow who invents a speeding ticket so durable it can't be turned up.

A good automobile is like a fine football team, each part doing its job. Remember that the next time you try to let your horn carry the ball for the brakes.

THE TOLL OF HOME ACCIDENTS

Timely reminder of the close relationship between apparently unimportant hurts to permanent injury to health, or even death, is contained in the statement of Will

L. Hancock, chairman of the home accident prevention committee of the Red Cross, in which it is pointed out that "deaths from accidents are decreasing in every classification except motor accidents and accidental deaths in the home."

During 1934 more than twice as many persons died as the result of accidents in the home, most of them of a minor nature but which were not properly cared for, than in industrial accidents.

The year also saw a material increase in the number of deaths from burns incurred in the home, with burns and falls being responsible for the larger proportion of all injuries in the home.

Mr. Hancock calls attention to the fact that "the Red Cross through its many branches and chapters is combating this alarming growth in the toll from accidents in the home through both local and national-wide campaigns."

As great as is the service of the Red Cross in saving life in times of emergency, and in carrying aid to those who have suffered from disasters of every character, the campaign to bring more general public realization of the dangers within the home can be of even more far-reaching importance in the saving of life and the prevention of unnecessary suffering.

The accident toll in the homes is chiefly as the result of carelessness with fire and inflammable materials, falls caused by lack of proper care and the falling of plaster and fixtures.

The proper precaution against accidents from these causes will make the American home far more safe than it is now. The Red Cross in emphasizing these dangers is rendering a service which receives universal appreciation and co-operation.

CHEAPER MEAT PRICES SEEN

Especially those American families with small revenues will be gratified at the statement made before the annual convention of the American Institute of Meat Packers that a reduction in meat prices is probable as the result of the better and bigger livestock supplies now in sight.

The definite statement is made by one of the country's largest meat packers that the increase in animals this summer has brought "prospects for larger marketing of hogs and lower prices toward the end of next spring."

The soaring prices of the meats consumed chiefly by those of small income has proved a serious problem for American family budgets to overcome during the past few months. Two and three hundred per cent increase in the price of the cheapest cuts has made it necessary for meat consumption to be cut or other important items of the family food to be eliminated.

These price increases have been the result of the combination of re-

World's Window

Empty Victories.

ADDIS ABABA—The Italian troops have occupied a line in north Ethiopia. They met no resistance, except a few frontier garrisons of Galla tribesmen, who gave them much trouble.

After four days of fighting and skirishing, Mussolini called a halt, ostensibly to allow the soldiers to consolidate their position, but in reality to pay some attention to what is going on in Europe. England opposes the conquest of Ethiopia. England has proposed sanctions and, if you think that England means mild sanctions, which will not bother Mussolini, you are wrong. Those sanctions will be effective and the fact that the gold reserve in the Italian state bank is the Italian reserve is the fact that England has struck the Duce in his most vulnerable spot. Mussolini has just time to make peace and M. Laval will call him to help him, but if there is no peace within a month, he's going to turn bad with all Europe. The Duce is up against a blank wall. And all the bombastic falder-la of the Italian press cannot hide his discomfiture. When a high command, like the Italian high command, admits that it is gravely disquieted, there is something radically wrong.

What Is Wrong?

World opinion is against Mussolini's campaign in Africa. That's one thing.

Even his best friends, like Pierre Laval, realize that the war is a mistake. There was no cause for war.

Ethiopia may be a backward nation that needs civilizing, but Ethiopia did not threaten Italian colonies. A few policemen would have sufficed to keep whatever Ethiopian raiders there are at the borders at bay.

Of course, the whole question was that Mussolini wanted colonies. France promised him he could have a free hand in Ethiopia on the condition he, Mussolini, ceased his agitation for a share in France's colonies. That was a deal, an agreement made in February this year in Rome. It looked easy to carry out. It is easy to carry out. Ethiopia has no armament. But England has. And the two partners of that famous deal had decided on England, just as they had decided not to count on England in 1914. And England remains the arbiter of the world's destinies, in spite of everything that may have been said written about the disintegration of the British empire.

Gas Is Being Used.

His grace, the Archbishop of Canterbury, is reported to have said that his heart is sickened by the thought of this utterly wanton slaughter of the Abyssinian people. "What will his lordship say now that the Italians are sprinkling poison gas and deadly chemical microbes on the southern front? One's sense of fairness revolts against this barbarous practice. It would be a different thing entirely if Ethiopia was a modern state with modern military equipment. But this is too gruesome. A wave of revulsion will pass through the world at this news, which, however, is happily not confirmed at the moment of writing in the town of Disseha on the road between Ababa and Adowa.

Most of the work to be contracted for will be in south Georgia. The list of projects will not be made public until the call for bids is formally issued.

FREDDY BARTHOLOMEW

AWARDED TO HIS AUNT

Boy Actor Tells Court Where Boys Go Who Do Not Tell the Truth.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Freddie Bartholomew, 11-year-old screen actor, became the legal ward today of his aunt, Miss Mylicent Mary Bartholomew, and in the superior court hearing gave his opinion on what happens to boys who tell lies.

Attorney Felix Cunningham, representing Miss Bartholomew, asked the child actor if he understood what it meant to swear to tell the truth and then what happens to boys who do not.

"They probably go to hell," said Freddie candidly.

The boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Llewellyn, now in England, where Freddie was born, opposed the guardianship petition and filed an affidavit charging the boy had been removed to this country "by trickery and deceit." They declared they had not been advised he would appear in the movies here.

Miss Bartholomew testified she had had exclusive care and custody of Freddie for eight years and had carefully explained the reason for the trip to Hollywood to her parents.

She said the young actor had a contract (with M-G-M) to work 40 weeks each year in pictures at $1,000 a week.

MOTHER SAYS NO LETTER RECEIVED FROM FREDDY

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The mother of Freddie Bartholomew, 11-year-old film star, who became the legal ward today in Los Angeles of his aunt, said she had not heard from him since he went to America 18 months ago.

"It did not occur to us that he would be away for more than three months," said Mrs. Bartholomew. "But he is still away and we hear nothing from him."

"I have not had a line from him since he has been away. We have written repeatedly but, whatever the reason, we get no reply. We know nothing of what he is doing except what we read in the film magazines and newspapers."

MRS. HESTER SIMMONS PASSES IN FLORIDA

Mrs. Hester Jones Simmons, pioneer citizen of DeKalb county, where she was born in 1840, and a resident of Atlanta for more than 50 years, died Sunday at Manatee, Fla., according to advices received here yesterday.

Member of a prominent family, she was widely known in Atlanta and north Georgia. She was a daughter of the late Lewis Ezzard and Angelina Beuchamp Jones and a granddaughter of Robert and Sarah Roberts Jones. She had been living at Manatee for the last six years.

In 1859 she was married to the late James Chandler. He was killed on the field of battle in the War Between the States. Her second marriage was to Dr. Stephen S. Simmons. She is survived by four children: Mrs. Emma Chandler George, L. O. Simmons, Atlanta; S. E. Simmons, Manatee; Miss Allie Simmons, Manatee; and Emmett P. Simmons, New York city. Another daughter, the late Mrs. McD. Bruce, preceded her in death.

Nineteen grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren also survive. Two of her grandchildren are Mrs. Clarence H. Calhoun and Jack Reese Simmons, of Atlanta.

TECH MARIONETTES SET FOR FRIDAY

The Georgia Tech Marionette Players will present the annual stunt night at the Tech Y. M. C. A. at 8 o'clock Friday night. The presentation will be similar to Major Bowes' amateur hour this year and a unique type of program is promised.

Over 50 acts have been prepared by various organizations on the campus and a prize will be presented to the most original and best prepared in each group. The program will be conducted by a master of ceremonies, who will have a gong and all things that go to make up a good amateur program. All men participating in stunts that are acceptable and do not get the gong will be eligible for active membership in the players.

The proceeds from the performance will be used by the club to finance a musical production some time after Thanksgiving. This type of presentation will bring a new brand of entertainment to the Tech campus and will give the new Marionette Players a stronger position on the campus.

"LAST-CHANCE" SERMON TO BE GIVEN TONIGHT

If a preacher had but one chance to preach, what would be the subject of her sermon?

Dr. Walt Holcomb, pastor of the Decatur First Methodist church, will preach at 7:45 o'clock tonight as if it were his last chance to bring mankind a message. "If I Had Only One Chance To Preach" is the general theme of a series of sermons being given by Dr. Holcomb, and other Atlanta preachers, during the week. Subjects of the sermons will not be announced.

Dr. William A. Shelton, pastor of the Grace Methodist church, will preach tomorrow night and on Friday night the Rev. John B. Peters, pastor of the Druid Hills Methodist church, will speak. There was special music by the orchestra and choir at the services last night, conducted by the Rev. James Wilson, pastor of St. Mark's Methodist church.

LUCKIE ST. Y. M. C. A. MARKS ANNIVERSARY

The twenty-first anniversary of the opening of the Luckie Street Y. M. C. A. building was observed yesterday. The present building, which recently has been entirely redecorated, was opened on October 22, 1914.

At that time the membership was approximately 100. W. E. Newell, of Inman Park, was the first paid member to enroll. In the 21 years of the building's occupancy, the membership has grown from 100 to 2,000.

The present general secretary is Philip M. Colbert. J. P. Jackson was the secretary when the structure was first opened.

What Is Meant by News

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 22.—(AP)—What is news? Frank B. Cox, publisher of the Douglas County Weekly Gazette, answers the question in an advertisement in this week's issue. News is when you have:

Died, moved, eloped, been ill, sold out, sold hogs, been shot, been born, had a baby, been drunk, been duped, had a fight, broke a leg, had a party, caught cold, been robbed, had company, been married, bought a car, been visiting, broken an arm, been courted, been divorced, been arrested, stolen anything, gone crazy, lost your hair, had a birthday, had an anniversary, been bitten by a snake, had an accident, cut a tooth, or had an operation.

Yes, that's news.

GINNING TAX CUT MAY SAVE $10,000

Fulton County Farmers Will Benefit From Latest Rate.

Reduction of the ginning tax rate and price of cotton certificates, ordered Monday by the secretary of agriculture, will result in a saving to Fulton county farmers of between $8,000 and $10,000 this year, it was said yesterday.

Secretary Wallace in Washington Monday ordered that the ginning tax rate be reduced from 6 cents per pound to 5.45 cents, and the certificates from 5 cents to 4 cents.

The effect of the reduction will be far-reaching in the state, it was declared by farm experts.

"Thousands of dollars will be saved the farmers this year but the exact amount will not be known until the end of the season," said one.

Harry L. Brown, director of extension work in Georgia, telegraphed Fulton County Agent S. D. Truitt yesterday of the price cut. He said the new price will affect local and pool sales of certificates and that pools must be liquidated immediately.

MELTON COMMITTEE TO REPORT ON STORM

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—An American Legion committee, headed by Quimby Melton, Griffin (Ga.) editor, assembled data here today on which to determine human responsibility if any, for the many deaths in a Florida keys veterans' camp in the September hurricane.

The group was appointed by the new Legion commander, Ray Murphy, after Howard MacFarlane, of Tampa, Fla., had read a preliminary report on the disaster before the St. Louis Legion convention.

Melton said the committee, comprised also of Dr. W. E. Whitlock, High Springs, Fla., and C. Jones, Selma, Ala., would determine "whether the disaster was an act of God and couldn't be helped, or if it could have been prevented—who is responsible."

The committee's report will be presented to the Legion executive committee at its Indianapolis meeting, November 1-2.

ATLANTA POPULAR AS WINTER RESORT

Atlanta is catching the eye of travelers all over the United States as a winter resort. Slater Marshall, research and information expert for the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, revealed yesterday.

He cited that letters have come in at the rate of 20 a day for two months, and said that Georgia seems to have the best chance in years to develop a thriving tourist trade. Many writers intimate that they want a warm southern climate without the chance of tropical storms, he said.

Marshall pointed out that Atlanta not only offers the conveniences of a large city, but also is far enough north to be out of storm territories. Those facts seem to appeal especially to the older tourists, he said.

HIT-RUN CAR SOUGHT; VICTIM UNIDENTIFIED

An unidentified negro was believed fatally injured at 9-10 o'clock last night by a hit-and-run driver, who struck him down at Piedmont avenue and Seventh street.

The negro was taken to Grady hospital, where he was found to have suffered a fracture of the skull, fracture of the left leg and other injuries. He was not expected to live at a late hour last night. The man was said to be about 40 or 45 years old.

MEMPHIS COMMISSION GRANTS TVA POWER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The city commission today authorized Mayor Watkins Overton to sign a contract with the Tennessee Valley Authority after overruling a protest by the Memphis Power & Light Co.

F. D. R. ENDS SEA TRIP,

ARRIVES IN CAROLINA

Reaches Charleston After Racing With Tropical Hurricane.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The cruiser Houston, bearing President Roosevelt homeward from a three-week fishing trip, slipped up Charleston harbor and anchored below the huge Cooper river bridge tonight shortly before midnight.

South Carolina, most solidly democratic state of the once rock-ribbed south, laid its plans today to give the President a warm welcome and display of affection.

Chased north by a tropical storm, the cruiser Houston, which carried the President from the west coast via the Panama canal, reached the harbor 12 hours ahead of its original schedule.

The President will be officially welcomed tomorrow and make a tour of the city and deliver a brief address.

Staid old Charleston was agog with excitement over President Roosevelt's coming. Bunting flew from the century old buildings of "the most historic city" and tomorrow was declared an official holiday by proclamation of Mayor Burnet R. Maybank.

Near-by cities also declared holidays and Mayor Maybank estimated 40,000 visitors would be in Charleston.

"I expect this to be the largest influx of visitors in the history of Charleston," said the mayor. He added that indications were many from Georgia and North Carolina would be here tomorrow.

After the President's tour of Charleston, he will leave for Washington by train. Included in his party are Secretary Ickes and Harold L. Hopkins, FWA director.

KEY PLANS TO VETO ADDITION TO CLINIC

Mayor Also To Act on Council's Plan for Permanent Registration List

Mayor Key yesterday had under consideration two important measures passed at Monday's meetings of city council and the aldermanic board.

One provided for a $100,000 addition to the Albert Steiner Cancer clinic, with the city agreeing to furnish $55,000 and PWA giving a $45,000 grant for prosecution of the work. He announced he will veto it, and council supporters of the project announced they will attempt to override the veto at the November 4 meeting of council.

The other would establish a permanent registration list for Atlanta through merger of the city registration with those of Fulton and DeKalb counties.

Key is extremely friendly to the undertaking, but it was pointed out that such a procedure would force Atlanta women, who in previous elections have voted without being forced to pay poll taxes, to make such payments in the future, if their names are kept on the county lists. This, it was said, might result in preventing many women from voting.

The mayor also was considering the personnel of a committee to attempt to evolve a program for extension of Broad street into Whitehall street. A committee of seven will be named, according to a council resolution passed Monday, and Key is anxious to select as strong a committee as possible because he is interested extremely in the success of the undertaking.

A co-operative plan through which Atlanta, Fulton county, the state and federal governments will join forces to insure the consummation of the project has been suggested and the mayor realizes that the personnel of the committee will have much to do with the success of the enterprise.

RUSSELL HIGH PLANS HALLOWEEN CARNIVAL

Halloween carnival of the Russell High school will be held from 6 to 9:30 o'clock Friday night, it was announced yesterday.

The highlight of the program, which is an annual event, will be the coronation of a king and queen. A popularity contest is being conducted by the various classes to determine the royal personages. Other attractions will include a raffle, a fish pond and a cake walk. A small admission fee will be charged.

Coughs, Chest Colds, Bronchial Irritations

How To Best Treat Them For Prompt Relief

Coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritations are not only symptoms of existing troubles, but vanguards of more serious conditions to follow unless promptly and effectively treated. There are five well-known and critically practiced approaches to relief which, when applied separately, produce only limited results, but, when combined, constitute a much more complete and favorable treatment. These five methods are:

1. Spreading a protective syrupy film over the throat membrane.
2. Reaching the congested membrane in vapor form.
3. Softening, loosening and aiding nature to expel germ-laden phlegm.
4. Aiding nature to release its working forces by inciting artificial laxation.
5. Attacking the seat of the trouble from the inside, through the stomach.

Practice No. 1, to simply coat the throat membranes with syrup of white pine compound with tar, borax and wild cherry, ordinary hard candy, is the most common, but it is only a temporary local palliative effect, without benefit however to any congestion in the larynx or chest. As to No. 2, menthol is the most popular agency used in inhalation treatments. These volatile crystals vaporize at low temperature, and undoubtedly is of benefit to the extent to which it effectively reaches the affected areas.

No. 3 is good as it is most desirable to expel germ-laden phlegm, but this method becomes of only partial value unless additional treatment is given to aid nature in causing a cessation of further phlegm accumulation, otherwise you go through a long-drawn-out process of recovery.

No. 4 represents a universally accepted need in the treatment of these conditions. Your doctor always cautions you to "keep your bowels open," and cascara seems to be the favorite laxative; and yet, laxation alone cannot be depended upon as a sufficient treatment.

So, the nearest approach to prompt cold and cough relief is in No. 5—attacking the seat of the trouble from the inside—through the stomach, and here is how that is accomplished. Of course, we all know that we are constantly breathing many varieties of germs, and a healthy system is usually able to successfully combat them. We also know that it is a mistake to use remedies containing narcotics or opiates which merely deaden the nerves, producing temporary coughing relief, because they put an added strain on the heart, and, in many instances, actually delay recovery.

Now then, if you have a chest cold, cough or bronchial irritation due to a common cold, it means that the delicate issue in your throat, larynx, bronchi or chest is inflamed and irritated—a veritable breeding place for germs—resulting in the whole system more vulnerable to serious attacks. Of all known remedies under class 5, Creomulsion is, we think, the most composite treatment, because in addition to ipecac as an expectorant; the volatile menthol crystals; wild cherry, horseradish root and oil of mullein, syrup of white pine compound with tar for soothing and cascara for gentle laxation, Creomulsion contains genuine Beechwood Creosote, thus giving the patient all five of these well known treatments in one. All of these therapeutically recognized ingredients, especially Beechwood Creosote, are so well proportioned and nicely balanced in Creomulsion that, when taken into the stomach, this composite treatment of five helps in one (without narcotics or opiates) brings prompt relief and rapid recovery.

Creomulsion is so pleasant to take and will not upset the stomach. Phone your druggist for a bottle of Creomulsion now, use as directed. Creomulsion is the most satisfactory treatment you have ever used, this same druggist is authorized by the Creomulsion Company to refund every cent of your money.

FREAKISH MISHAPS HURT HOME FOLKS

Accidents Happen Anywhere From Many Strange Causes

Drinking beer and sleeping soundly often cause serious accidents, a report issued by W. L. Hancock, chairman of the statistical committee aiding the home accident prevention campaign, showed yesterday.

Insurance reports show a man, operating a bottle of beer, cut a tendon on his thumb when the top rim of the glass broke and suffered a permanent disability.

A doctor, sleeping soundly, rolled out of bed and fractured three ribs. He was laid up for a month.

Slipping on a piece of food in her kitchen, a housewife fell and injured an ankle.

A husband, put to work on a refrigerator, cut his hand on a piece of broken glass, severing tendons which caused permanent injury.

Another man, standing in a boat fishing, slipped and broke four ribs. As a result, he developed pneumonia.

A slip on wet pavement resulted in a fractured arm for another physician.

An enterprising home owner decided to remove the door from his garage. The door fell, his arm went through the glass, he was cut badly.

A housewife reached for something on the top shelf of her kitchen. She slipped, hit a table and sustained internal injuries which disabled her for some time.

Spicy "Tattle Tales" Issued by Atlantans

The Tell Tale Tattle, official monthly organ of the Atlanta Club, organization of women employees of the city hall, yesterday made its initial appearance, and was fair to be a spicy publication. The women are going to peddle the news as well as "dish the dirt," according to the contents of the first issue.

For instance, J. Henson Tatum, city clerk and registrar, is to be operated on at Georgia Baptist hospital at 10 o'clock this morning for appendicitis, but the publication, off the press yesterday afternoon, tells of his operation in the past tense and wishes him a speedy recovery. Reporters were taken to task for allegedly inaccurate reports of recent Atlanta Club elections.

FLOWER SHOW SPACE ENTIRELY SOLD OUT

Southeastern Exhibit To Be Larger Than Ever Before, Official Says.

Announcement that every foot of exhibit space at the Atlanta auditorium has been reserved for the Southeastern flower show, November 4 to 9, inclusive, by florists, nurserymen and garden clubs, thus making it impossible to consider further entries, was made last night by F. B. Steward, managing director of the show.

Of greater magnitude than almost any other show that has been staged in the auditorium, the flower show will cover a total of 30,000 square feet, with exhibits of almost everything that is physically possible to transplant indoors.

Even the immense stage has been reserved by exhibitors. The large lobby also will be devoted to exhibits, being occupied in its entirety by displays of various garden clubs of the state. The exhibits of florists and nurserymen will include not only those from Atlanta and neighborhood, but of famed horticulturists from the east and mid-west as far as Denver.

The garden clubs of the state were invited to participate in this show without being required to pay for exhibit space, and allotments of space were made in the order in which acceptances to the invitation were received.

The garden clubs, in addition to being allotted space without charge, may compete for substantial cash prizes in two classifications: Flower arrangements over 15 inches in height, and flower arrangements under 15 inches in height.

Steward announced that every exhibit will be of the highest quality, and the regulations of the show require that all measure up to the highest accepted standards. The show will compare favorably with the annual New York show at Madison Square Garden, Steward said.

AILEEN SISK DENIES SHE'D MARRY HONEA

Married to Another Man, Lawyer Says; Injunction Dismissal Asked

Aileen Sisk, previously known far and wide as the sweetheart of Marvin Honea, condemned slayer, officially denied yesterday that she ever had any intention of marrying him.

Acting as attorney for herself, Aileen yesterday in Fulton superior court filed an answer to an injunction plea of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Honea that she be enjoined from marrying their son and that she be restrained from using his name for publicity purposes.

The girl, who is under so many indictments that she needs a list to recall them all, set forth that she would "not marry Marvin Honea even if she were free to do so."

An attorney who has frequently gone on her bond when she became involved in the toils of the law said yesterday that she is married and that she has never been divorced from her husband.

The girl asked the court to dismiss the temporary injunction against her, which was granted Honea's parents. Honea has been condemned to die in the electric chair early next month for the hold-up slaying of young David A. Lord, FEWA worker, who was killed in a Center Hill filling station last year.

LAST RITES TODAY FOR R. J. SPRATLIN

Funeral services for Robert J. Spratlin, 63, of 1521 Howell Mill road, who was fatally injured Sunday when he was struck by an auto while he was working on the street car tracks at Hunter street and Central avenue, will be held at 11 o'clock this morning at the Western Heights Baptist church with the Rev. J. E. Maness and Dr. W. H. Knight officiating.

Mr. Spratlin was struck down by an auto driven by T. H. Berry, of 596 Park avenue, during the rain Sunday night. Berry was charged with reckless driving and held under bond of $200. Spratlin died at Grady hospital.

Burial will be in Magnolia cemetery with A. W. L. Knight officiating.

COURT ASKED TO FREE ELLIS FROM PRISON

Lawyers Claim Former Buco Operative Has Completed His Sentence

Federal Judge E. Marvin Underwood had placed before him yesterday the question of whether exemplary conduct of a federal prisoner confined in a county jail may be counted on his "good time" for release from the federal penitentiary.

Attorneys for Ed O. Ellis, convicted in 1931 as a member of the Clyde Smith wire tapping gang, contended he should have been a free man Saturday if such is the case.

Ellis and W. Clyde Smith, who was convicted at the same time, appealed to the circuit court of appeals, but Ellis remained in Fulton county jail while Smith went out on a bond which authorities claim he later jumped.

The conviction was sustained and Ellis was then sentenced to serve four years and nine months beginning from the time he was placed in the county jail.

R. F. Bates, record clerk at the federal penitentiary here, told the court in the habeas corpus hearing the court does not provide for figuring such time.

Judge Underwood took the case under advisement.

Headache

"Inside Facts" that may help you...

The first step toward relieving simple headache is to understand its cause. Pain is the cry of over-taxed nerves for rest. And when we realize that the nerves spread throughout every part of the body (see head diagram) we understand how serious a nervous disturbance can be.

In selecting a remedy for headache, periodic pain, and other nerve pain use one that soothes the tense nerves. Capudine is ideally suited for simple headache, neuralgic pain, rheumatic, or periodic pain because it relieves high nerve tension and brings welcome relaxation. No narcotics or opiates. Ask for Capudine Liquid or Capudine Brand Tablets.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

Profit-taking comers swept over the stock market list today, dislodging some of the recent industrial favorites from their leadership, but a number of utility and rail issues were pushed forward to take their places.

The close saw prices about evenly divided between plus and minus prefixes. The first hour of trading provided the chief excitement as profit-taking was at its peak in the largest initial hour's dealings, 920,000 shares, with trading on the floor.

Considerable periods during the first hour specialists in many active industrials and the rhythm of dealings slowed considerably later to bring the day's total to the stock exchange to 2,840,130 shares.

Coking, which topped the list of a point, while the 30 industrials were down a point, 2 of a point.

Neither other markets nor the domestic and foreign news nor the offer much basis for the early profit-taking and Wall Street observers generally, and perhaps too, had advanced of some leaders recently had been at the bottom of the disturbance.

Cotton attracted a gain among the commodities with a gain of 35 cents a bale as the A. A. A. at Chicago was reported to have changed to 3.8 of a cent a bushel.

The bond market was content to follow in the footsteps of equities, with a steady to firm tone in rail and utilities, while industrials were irregular.

Toward the war situation, feeling mirrored in a rally of 1-2 to 1-2 States government obligations were uneven, up 10-32 of a cent down 5-32 with most changes narrow.

Corporate and business news was the carloaders reported, which was noted last week, many of which were public today, mostly showed continued, and predictions were made in some quarters that when the day figures were made public they would be another high since 1931 might be reached.

The buying in utilities, market quarters reported, seemed to be based on the feeling that the group had been keeping quiet for some time while some of the industrials might be easier to come back. It was recalled that several times in recent months individual groups had staged rallies.

Missouri-Kansas-Texas common firming fractionally and the preferred of 1-3-8 points at 10, as President Roosevelt's prediction of the best operating revenues for the best year since 1932, and ending round this year's $10,000 cash surplus at the year end, more than enough to pay off RFC loans.

Among the issues which got down major fractions to around 3 points in the market, Point at 133-1/2, Chrysler Commercial Investment Credit at 49-1/2, Westinghouse at 86, Auburn at 61, and Western Union at 62-1/2.

Columbia Gas was a leader on the up-side with a lift of 5-1/2 points at 97, while others up 1-1/2 to 1-3/4 points. United States Steel at 59-1/2, Columbia Gas at 14-3/8 and Santa Fe at 49.

UTILITY CURB SHARES AIDED BY LATE DEMAND

Losses of Fractions to Around a Point Are Noted in Industrials.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

A heavy demand for power and light issues helped the curb market near the close today, although declines of fractions to around a point predominated among industrial issues. Volume, which approximated 518,000 shares, was the most active for any session since August 13, and compared with the yesterday.

In the late rush for utilities, Electric Bond & Share advanced 2 points to 15-1/4, while American Gas & Electric rose more than a point to 35-1/4. Citizens Service and Niagara Hudson Power improved fractionally together with scattered specialties including Pan-American Airways and Montgomery Ward. Great Atlantic & Pacific advanced 2-1/2.

Losers of a point or so included International Petroleum at 53-1/2, Hiram Sullivan at 27-7/8, Bunker Hill & Company of America at 77.

FARM IMPORTS FOR '35 SHOW BIG INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

Farm imports during 1935 of record and near-record proportions were reported today by the Commerce Department.

Figures for nine months through September reversed America's trade position as an exporter primarily of agricultural products and an importer, chiefly of agricultural commodities.

Commerce officials said agricultural imports increased over 1934 in almost every class, while this class of exports declined, although experts said the figures set records, although comparable statistics for nine-month periods in past years were not available.

Publication of the figures coincided with a treasury order levying additional duties of 37 cents a bushel of rye imported from Poland.

Secretary Morgenthau, who said the treasury's action was a result of "official report" (the treasury) to its satisfaction (Poland) pays bounties upon the exportation of rye grain.

EARNINGS SHOW GAIN FOR THIRD QUARTER

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—

The first 98 corporations reporting earnings for the third quarter of 1935 show a gain of 37 per cent over the same quarter of 1934.

For the entire first nine months of 1935, 98 corporations reporting showed a gain over the like period of last year of 23.3 per cent.

The total net earnings reported by 98 corporations for the third quarter was $102,626, compared with $86,746,263 in the like period of last year. For the first nine months of 1935, the total net earnings reported by 98 corporations was $299,007,141, compared with $242,503,432.

TEACHERS ASK BOARD TO RESTORE PAY CUT

Resolution Cites Higher Living Costs, Other Wage Boosts.

Pointing out that other county employees have had salary raises, Fulton county teachers yesterday demanded restoration of 25 per cent cuts given them since 1931.

The teachers, in a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Fulton County Teachers' Association, declared that the cost of living has increased and that the income of the county is greater than at any period since 1929. They requested the board of education to restore the 12-month salary schedule in effect in 1932.

The resolution follows:

Whereas, the teachers and other employees of the Fulton county public school system have suffered a 25 per cent cut in their salaries from September, 1932, to the present time, which cut has been borne without complaint, and with no effect on the service rendered, and

Whereas, the cost of living, since this cut went into effect, has steadily increased, and is now fully 25 per cent greater than it was in 1932, thereby making the salary reduction more keenly felt, and

Be it resolved, that we earnestly petition the board of education to make an effort to restore the 12 months' salary schedule that was in force in 1931.

Be it further resolved, that the delegates to the Atlanta Federation of Teachers present these resolutions to that body with the request that they approve them and that they render such active assistance and co-operation as they see fit.

JOCKEYS ARE SOUGHT IN DEATH OF WOMAN

Police Seek To Question Rider of 1935 Kentucky Derby Winner.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Investigation of the "good-time slaying" of comely, 24-year-old Evelyn Sliwinski swung tonight toward an ambiguous race track figure and former jockey pending either detention of Willie "Smookey" Saunders, rider of the 1935 Kentucky Derby winner, or his arrival of his own will for questioning. He was reported to have started from Baltimore when he heard the police here wanted him.

Louisville police broadcast a request for arrest of Tony Sani, 20, exercise boy and former jockey, Sani was reported seen with Saunders a few hours before the gay party which preceded Mrs. Sliwinski's beating and death under the wheels of an automobile hurled upon her by an angry driver.

Kentucky race commission records do not show Sani's name among the licensed jockeys. Officials said they thought it possible Sani was a variant spelling of the name of another jockey listed in 1934 track annals as a successful rider.

The police ordered Jockey Saunders brought in for questioning after Mrs. Agatha Mackison, 28, the other woman on the tragic party, selected pictures of him as resembling one of the two men. She was left hysterical at her doorstep early Sunday with the warnings "you'd better be thankful you're alive" and "see that you forget all about this."

It was dawn Monday before she recovered enough to accept counsel of her brother, James Deleale, mass mechanic, and accompany him to the police station. Meanwhile the pretty tailor's wife and good-time girl lay nearly a day in a morgue before being identified by her husband, Paul Sliwinski. He blamed her fate on her "love of going out and having a good time."

Texas Publisher's Dove Brings Rescue, Not Twig
MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—E. M. Dealey, vice president of the Dallas News and Dallas Journal, Dallas, Texas, was one up on Noah today.

Noah's dove brought back only an olive branch. Dealey, aground on Cape Florida in the cabin cruiser "Miss Florida," sent out a carrier pigeon that brought a rescuing coast guard patrol boat.

Dealey and Mrs. Dealey, fishing in the Florida keys on Captain Tom H. Moore's boat, went aground October 19. Efforts to get the boat off were futile.

The pigeon was released and bore a note to the Floridian fishing docks at Miami which advised the coast guard cutter Pandora, in Miami harbor, of the "Miss Florida's" predicament.

The Pandora, in turn, notified the coast guard base at Port Everglades which radioed the patrol boat CG-244N cruising in the vicinity. She pulled the stranded craft off early Sunday morning.

The Dealeys, undaunted, repositioned and went back for two days more fishing, returning to Miami today to tell the story before leaving for Jacksonville en route to Dallas.

Father's Hope of Finding Son, 12, Blasted After Hearing in Court

Mystery of Dozen Years Remains as Sombre as When Young Husband Returned From Wife's Funeral To Find Child Had Vanished.

DETROIT, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The fate of the infant son of William Greatrix was the same sombre mystery tonight it has been during the 12 years since a nurse's error placed the baby in the hands of a strange shack dweller whose only object was "to get rid of it."

The young father, who returned from the funeral of his wife to learn the baby she died in bearing had vanished, was in despair as he left the court today after a hearing he had hoped would relieve the mental anguish in which he has lived since 1923.

That hope, like all the others that led him to spend his entire savings in running down one false clue after another, vanished as Alphonse Vlemminck, the stolid felon who took away the child in the belief it was his unmarried daughter's, repeated in broken English his story he had given the baby to a strange "couple from Pennsylvania" whom he had met casually in a saloon.

Vlemminck, convicted last week of taking indecent liberties with a four-year-old girl, suddenly denied the direct question of Judge Thomas M. Cotter:

"You buried that baby, didn't you?" The 60-year-old Belgian shook his head. "No," he said.

"You wanted to get rid of the baby, didn't you?" the judge asked.

"I was glad to get rid of it," he replied.

"Did you tell these people from Pennsylvania that the child you wanted to give them was your child by your own daughter?" asked Louis C. Cohane, attorney for Greatrix.

"Yes, I told them," Vlemminck said. The prisoner was convicted in 1929 of abandoning his daughter's child, and sentenced to one to three years imprisonment.

Sentencing in the indecent liberties case was deferred by Judge Cotter, who instructed the prosecutor to file additional information to permit procedure against Vlemminck under the habitual criminal act.

"These years have been nightmares," said the man whose baby he took. "I've walked the streets watching youngsters—my son would be 12 years old now—hoping I might see him. But now—"

He broke off, his face a mask of despair.

Robertson was arrested in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., yesterday afternoon with an attack upon a garage night watchman and the robbery of a garage here.

His alleged victim, George Sterling, 30, remained in Kings county hospital today in a critical condition with a fractured skull.

The alleged robbery took place early Sunday morning. Sterling said his assailant beat him and looted the cash register of $13.

Robertson had worked at the garage as an auto painter, Sterling said. Robertson told police he left Duke in 1928, had won the college boxing championship, and had played football and tennis.

Modern Trend Adopted By Funeral Directors
CLEVELAND, Oct. 22.—(AP)—It's a "funeral director" now—not "undertaker."

Ewing Griffin, of Jackson, Tenn., ranking member of the board of governors of the National Funeral Directors' Association, is authority for an assertion that "undertaker" is out of date.

Griffin, here to attend the association's convention, said today it's all a matter of semantics. "The body," not "the remains." Further, it's a "door-badge" that marks a home where a death has occurred—not a "casket."

The funeral directors object to "casket," Griffin said, because "casket" sometimes is used as a jest.

LORD CARSON, 81, DIES IN MINSTER, ENGLAND

Noted Irish Politician Was Former British Solicitor General.

MINSTER, Kent, England, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Lord Carson, "The Champion of Ulster," who fought the establishment of home rule in Ireland, will be buried Saturday in St. Anne's cathedral, Belfast.

The former first lord of the admiralty and former solicitor-general died today at the age of 81 of chronic lymphatic leukemia, which became serious several weeks ago.

The Ulster parliament passed a special act authorizing the burial at St. Anne's. It will be the first interment in the cathedral.

Baron Carson, of Duncairn, died suddenly after he had appeared to be slightly improved this morning. Members of his family, including Lady Carson, were at the bedside.

Opponents of Lord Carson described his organization of an army of 100,000 volunteers in 1914 to fight against establishment of home rule in Ireland as an act close to treason. The army, which Lord Carson said was only for the purpose of maintaining the union of Ireland with the rest of the British Isles, suddenly shifted its operations to the battlefields of France when the war broke out last year, and the Irish question was put over for the time.

Lord Carson, demonstrating his adherence to the cause of Great Britain, accepted a post the minister without portfolio in the British cabinet during the years 1917-18.

The war-time prime minister, David Lloyd George, described Lord Carson as "one of the most remarkable figures of his time," on learning of his death. Baron Carson had once called Lloyd George "a little popinjay."

HONEA SANITY TEST ORDERED BY TALMADGE

Marvin Honea, condemned holdup slayer of David Lord, a FERA worker, will be given a sanity test today by Dr. Frank Eskridge, of Atlanta. Governor Talmadge ordered the examination yesterday at the request of Honea's attorneys.

Permission for the removal of Honea from the Fulton tower to Dr. Eskridge's clinic on West Peachtree street was granted by the Governor.

Since being sentenced to death, Honea has filed suit for divorce and announced his intention to marry Aileen Sisk, who is under indictment in connection with a series of bombings. The attorneys contend that this act, and others are proof that Honea is of unbalanced mind. His conviction and death sentence has been upheld by the supreme court and the prison commission has reported adversely on his application for commutation to life imprisonment.

1720-B BECOMING FRONT FULLNESS IN A SIMPLE FROCK.

One fashion that you can count on in front fullness. It began last spring, if you remember, and is still going strong. Then, full sleeves, they too have withstood the critical analysis of a couple of seasons and they remain. This dress has both. A skirt with a shirred front section, and sleeves that are long and wide, gathered in an armhole which deserves a little praise on its own. You see, there is a rounded part, just a continuation of the blouse, which extends way off the shoulders, and then the shirred part is cut up, in a slanting line. Sounds intricate, but you can see by the illustration that it is really a simple matter. The blouse is buttoned down the front, and there is a little round collar to finish off the neckline. The belt is, in this case, made of the same material as the dress.

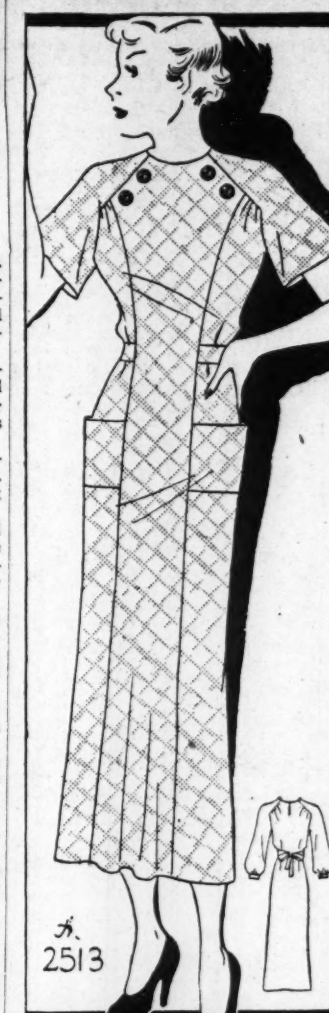

Choose one of the interesting silks for this frock. Satin back crepe, or dull, heavy silk in a color that is becoming.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1720-B is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 (34) requires 4-1/4 yards of 30-inch material.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Send for the fall and winter Barbara Bell pattern book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes selecting designs from the one hundred and nineteen Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. WOMEN FIND SIMPLE HOUSE FROCK SLENDERIZING AND PRACTICAL.

Pattern 2513. It looks like a very businesslike smock, doesn't it?—anything but like a house dress, and fits so smoothly—without bulge or wrinkle, once it's tied in place. Too, it bespeaks efficiency, from the young, collarless neckline and short sleeves right down to the hem, and the housewife who wears size 44 will discover a wealth of slenderness in that straight, unbelted center panel. Raglan sleeves tend to trim down a heavy shoulder, and at the same time provide a roomy free-action armhole that's easy to fit and stitch. Any of the washable cottons are practical—percale, broadcloth and gingham, to mention a few.

Pattern 2513 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 takes 3-1/2 yards. 36-inch fabric. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

HONEA SANITY TEST ORDERED BY TALMADGE

Marvin Honea, condemned holdup slayer of David Lord, a FERA worker, will be given a sanity test today by Dr. Frank Eskridge, of Atlanta. Governor Talmadge ordered the examination yesterday at the request of Honea's attorneys.

Permission for the removal of Honea from the Fulton tower to Dr. Eskridge's clinic on West Peachtree street was granted by the Governor.

Since being sentenced to death, Honea has filed suit for divorce and announced his intention to marry Aileen Sisk, who is under indictment in connection with a series of bombings. The attorneys contend that this act, and others are proof that Honea is of unbalanced mind. His conviction and death sentence has been upheld by the supreme court and the prison commission has reported adversely on his application for commutation to life imprisonment.

1720-B BECOMING FRONT FULLNESS IN A SIMPLE FROCK.

One fashion that you can count on in front fullness. It began last spring, if you remember, and is still going strong. Then, full sleeves, they too have withstood the critical analysis of a couple of seasons and they remain. This dress has both. A skirt with a shirred front section, and sleeves that are long and wide, gathered in an armhole which deserves a little praise on its own. You see, there is a rounded part, just a continuation of the blouse, which extends way off the shoulders, and then the shirred part is cut up, in a slanting line. Sounds intricate, but you can see by the illustration that it is really a simple matter. The blouse is buttoned down the front, and there is a little round collar to finish off the neckline. The belt is, in this case, made of the same material as the dress.

Choose one of the interesting silks for this frock. Satin back crepe, or dull, heavy silk in a color that is becoming.

Barbara Bell pattern No. 1720-B is designed in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36 and 38. Size 16 (34) requires 4-1/4 yards of 30-inch material.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Send for the fall and winter Barbara Bell pattern book. Make yourself attractive, practical and becoming clothes selecting designs from the one hundred and nineteen Barbara Bell well-planned, easy-to-make patterns. Interesting and exclusive fashions for little children and the difficult junior age; slenderness, well cut patterns for the mature, afternoon dresses for the most particular young women and matrons and other patterns for special occasions are all to be found in the Barbara Bell pattern book. ## SOCIAL SECURITY ACT LAUDED AT ROAD MEET Highway Group Urged To Support Law at Nashville Session.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP) Vincent M. Miles, member of the Federal Social Security Board, told the Good Roads Association in convention here today, that the social security act as in harmony with traditional American systems of government.

This harmony existed, he said, because the act provided for federal co-operation with states to furnish aid for old-age pensions, aid to blind, to mothers and unemployment insurance.

"Experience abroad has shown," Miles said, "that unemployment insurance in itself, and standing alone, while a great aid to the industrial worker, is not sufficient for social security, but is coupled with immediate grants to the old, plus the creation of reserves for those who will become old; with contributions for maternal care to avoid the hazards of childbirth; with contributions for the children who are left with a mother when the wage earner is gone; with public health conditions improved to avoid the recurrence of preventable diseases, we have a sound foundation for social security."

Miles urged members of the association to assist in their respective states enactment of legislation for co-operation with the federal government in administration of the social security act's provisions.

"The Doctor was RIGHT!"

Women should take only liquid laxatives

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

Measure-out a cleansing dose of liquid laxative, regulating the amount to suit the age, condition and individual need.

Tomorrow, take less; let the regular muscular action of bowels do part of the work—aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use a little less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

Use less each time until bowels require no aid at all.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. It's the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried. You'll never go back to fixed doses of strong cathartics that act with such violence!

Ask your doctor. Ask your druggist how popular liquid laxatives have become. Or get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and if it doesn't give you absolute relief, if it isn't a joy and comfort in the way it overcomes any sluggishness or biliousness due to constipation, return it and get your money.

Try Syrup Pepsin! Just take regulated doses until Nature has restored regularity.

Do what doctors do to relieve such a condition. They use liquid laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of

"What d'ya mean... Young Ideas?"

"COME NOW!" writes a smoker. "Do you mean to say an Old Gold will make a 'Timid Soul' feel like a gay and dashing Don Juan?"

"Certainly not, sir!" was our reply. "Old Gold is just a darn good smoke... not a Dry Martini."

"But since you raise the point, we DO say there are times when an Old Gold will raise your spirits. In its richer, smoother tobaccos, there's nothing to irritate, and PLENTY to stimulate... young ideas and feelings."

Try a pack... and you'll know what we mean!

St. Louis Belle To Participate In Atlanta's Junior Horse Show

By Sally Forth

THE attention of horse-lovers will be concentrated on the Junior horse show next Saturday, and a spectacular visiting rider in the event will be Betty Funston, of St. Louis. She will visit Betty Ann Bird, whom she knew at Rockbrook camp. In fact, the two Bettys, who are accomplished young equestriennes, spent the past four summers at this North Carolina camp. It was there that they perfected their horsemanship under Mrs. A. S. Wheeler, well-known equitation instructor.

So proud is Mrs. Wheeler of her St. Louis pupil that she has offered Silver Mist, her favorite mount, for Betty to ride in Saturday's show. Betty Ann will ride Chocolate Soldier, her handsome new gelding, recently given her by Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bird, her parents. Sally predicts that the attractive pair of young riders will receive thunderous applause, as well as blue ribbons, when they circle the white-fenced ring astride their handsome black and white five-gaiters.

FEMININE beauty and charm can exert more power, on occasion, than a Diesel engine. A convincing example is the case of a prominent Atlanta widow (top-drawer set, if you please) who went away on a journey to be gone two long months.

The compelling power of her personal magnetism was very quickly apparent in the departure of a prominent Atlanta widower, whom you've often seen in her wake at society's exclusive gatherings. Wherever she went—New York, Washington, Atlantic City—he found it convenient to go there, too.

Sally hears that at one point of her trip she was taken quite ill. She was confined to her room for two whole weeks with a miserable cold. But, by far the most miserable person around was the aforementioned widower. Quarantined in the same hotel, he did not even get a glimpse of the charming lady during the entire time the cold lasted.

ASIDE from her ability to conduct a garden school, Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown is blessed with a sense of humor. Her name and comment on The Constitution's garden school she will conduct next week at the Atlanta Woman's Club is flashed every night on the Coca-Cola motor-graph running beneath the Coca-Cola clock on Peachtree street.

Mrs. Crown's better half—Rice Crown—was detained at his office until very late a night or two ago. As he turned his automobile into Peachtree street he saw, for the first time, the electric statement about his wife and "The Constitution's garden school." Upon reaching his home in Decatur, he told Mrs. Crown he had seen her name flashed in electric lights.

Mrs. Crown replied: "I haven't yet made the Broadway lights, but I am awfully proud to have my name in Peachtree lights."

The motor-graph has this to say in big electric lights: "The Atlanta Constitution invites you to attend its garden school at the Atlanta Woman's Club on October 29 through November 1. Lectures each morning at 10 o'clock will be given by Mrs. Fletcher Pearson Crown."

YESTERDAY marked the departure of Mrs. Louise Ayres Robert and Louisa Robert for Washington to spend several days at the Shoreham hotel. As Sally has told you before, Louisa goes to the national capital to act as bridesmaid in the marriage of pretty Marie McIntyre and Frederick May Warren II, which will be a fashionable event taking place on Saturday at 4:30 o'clock in the Francis Asbury Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in Washington.

Marie, you know, is the daughter of Marvin H. McIntyre, secretary to President Roosevelt, and Mrs. McIntyre, and is numbered among popular belles in capital social circles. She is a graduate of the National Cathedral school and her favorite hobby is amateur theatricals. During the past year she has taken part in a number of successful amateur productions.

Louisa will be in Washington in ample time to attend the last of the series of pre-nuptial parties for Marie and her fiancé, and her charming presence will add interest to the assemblages.

Atlanta Agnes Scott Club To Sponsor Lecture Series on Arts of the Home

A series of lectures on the arts of the home will be presented to the public in October and November by the Atlanta Agnes Scott Club. Upholding the high standards of the college and stressing the ever-increasing sense of importance given to home activities, the Atlanta alumnae feel that the program strikes a happy response from those interested, not only from a practical point of view, but those desiring to approach the domestic arts from an academic angle.

October 25—"Domestic Architecture of the United States," Harold Bush-Brown, 3 p. m., Piedmont Driving Club. October 30—"Furniture Design of the Late Eighteenth Century," Mary Miller, 3 p. m., Piedmont Driving Club. November 8—"Furniture Design of the Early Nineteenth Century," Mary Miller, 3 p. m., Piedmont Driving Club. November 13—"Old Silver," S. Y. Tupper, 3 p. m., 755 Peachtree. November 22—"Porcelains," Mrs. Samuel R. Porter, 3 p. m., 755 Peachtree. Each speaker is recognized as a leader in his or her field.

Bush-Brown, head of the architectural school at Georgia Tech for 15 years, brings a broad knowledge and experience in teaching. Mrs. Miller, whose prestige is spoken by reason of her selection as a member of the board of the American Institute of Decorators, will supply a need long felt by Atlanta women, that of a practical, workable understanding and feeling for authentic furniture design.

Mr. Tupper began his study of silver as a hobby, but it has led him to the position of connoisseur and collector. His subject appeals because of its intrinsic merit and for its unique qualities. Mrs. Samuel Porter is the acknowledged authority in this section on rare china and porcelain. Her private collection is made up of pieces worthy of a museum and those who have heard her talk will be the first to avail themselves of another opportunity.

Bush-Brown will show slides to illustrate the various styles of architecture which he will cover in his lecture, and there will be valuable exhibits of antique furniture, rare silver and museum china to illustrate the other lectures with round-table discussions following each. Tickets for the series at $2 and may be secured from Mrs. Granger Hansell, president of the Atlanta Agnes Scott Club, Dearborn 2717. Single admission is 50 cents.

B. and P. W. Club Members of the Business and Professional Women's Club will motor to Neal's Gap Sunday. Cars will leave from the corner of Ponce de Leon and Highland avenues at 7 o'clock and the party will have breakfast at the Dixie Hunt hotel, in Gainesville, with members of the Gainesville Chamber of Commerce as official hosts. Details may be obtained by telephoning Mrs. Frank McNew, Hemlock 4486-M. Reservations must be in by Thursday evening.

The new headquarters, 703-4 Grand Theater building, was opened with a tea Sunday. The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. James E. Fuller, past president of the club. In the receiving line were Mrs. Flora S. Osburn, president; Miss Blanche E. Wood and Dr. Maude Foster, vice presidents, and Mrs. William E. Henyon, chairman of the headquarters committee. Miss Rebecca Shurman, past president of the state federation, and Miss Mary Cavanaugh, president at the tea table.

LINDSEY IS REFUSED JUVENILE JUDGESHIP

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Judge Ben B. Lindsey's ambition to take over the Los Angeles county juvenile bench was temporarily frustrated today as 44 of his fellow superior court judges named instead a jurist who had not even asked for the job.

The former Denver jurist, widely known for his views on companionate marriage, had expressed a desire to succeed Judge Samuel R. Blake, who recently asked to be assigned to another court.

Meeting in secret session last night, the jurists appointed Judge Richard H. Scott to handle the juvenile court during Judge Blake's vacation and decided to delay action on a permanent appointment until next January.

FALL GARDEN NOTES

Editor's Note: Mrs. Fletcher Pearson, author of "Fall Garden Notes," published daily in The Atlanta Constitution, will conduct the garden school to be given under the auspices of the Constitution on October 29, 30, 31, and November 1, from 10 to 11:30 a. m. The school will be held at the Atlanta Woman's Club on Peachtree street. Mrs. Pearson is an authority on horticulture and an originator of the garden school idea. Her program will include excellent material and features, and The Constitution will spare no expense to make the classes well worth the attention of every garden-minded Atlantan and Georgian. There will be no charge of admission to the school.

The mechanical condition of garden soil is quite as important as its fertility. It is not advisable to apply fertilizer to soil which is not in proper condition to receive it and make it available to the plants. To loosen soil and make its fertility available one must add humus, sand and other coarse materials, one easy to obtain is coal ashes. This also helps drainage, which is essential. After these things are added the bed will be found to be several inches higher than the surrounding soil. This is an advantage for drainage, though the bed will settle decidedly after the first heavy rain.

Now that our beds have been prepared we will consider the plants to be used. If your gardens are large enough we have chosen a flowering shrub background, but if we lack for room we can use the clipped hedge four or five feet tall. The climatic is satisfactory, or the silver lace vine, but one, which, while slower growing, is very lovely, is English ivy. This has the great advantage of being evergreen. In front of this green wall our perennials show to the greatest advantage. We find that we must take into consideration the following points:

Height of Plants: This varies greatly as you will see when you consider that the tall hollyhocks and goldengloves are included in the perennials. In front of this green wall our perennials show to the greatest advantage. We find that we must take into consideration the following points:

Blooming Season: Aim to have a continuous supply of flowers in your hardy border. The many flower catalogues tell when to expect flowers from the different kinds, and there is no reason why you cannot have blooms all season.

J. C. Harris P-T. A.

Joel Chandler Harris P-T. A. will sponsor a Halloween carnival at the school Friday from 2 to 5 o'clock.

Peachtree Garden Club

Peachtree Garden Club members meet Monday at 3 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club, with Mrs. W. F. Prescott. An election of officers takes place at the meeting.

For Mrs. Fenn.

Mrs. Luther Singleton gave a luncheon on Tuesday in honor of Mrs. Frank Fenn Jr., who recently returned from a visit to Ohio.

WRIGHT'S CONDITION REPORTED BETTER

A woman was killed and two other persons seriously hurt in the same accident.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

A Persian Blue Mascara for Sparse or Faded Eyelashes

By MIGNON.

One of the newest eye products that I have yet discovered is a hazy blue mascara—a purplish blue that is marvelous for blondes or gray-haired women who look terribly artificial and theatrical if they try to use a black mascara. It is only recently that the idea of bringing out a woman to go to bed at night with mascara on her eyelashes. There are many excellent eyelash creams on the market and there is always white vaseline that they can use after they have removed the war paint at night. If they do not want to bother about this it won't do them any good when it is too late to take care of their looks. Remove the mascara with cream—any kind of cold cream or with vaseline, and then thoroughly oil the lashes with an eyelash cream, sweet oil or white vaseline. But whatever you do, try the new blue mascara to see how it will help you to get the sport about it. If he has any spirit he won't let her dictate to him about his friends and if he did she would have no respect for him. Worse and more of it: the wife who makes such a point with her husband in making it impossible for him to be friends with her. She will wake up some day to find herself out in the cold. Perhaps a true story of a woman who had this problem may help you. She is much as you do about her husband's best friend but she was clever enough to conceal it. When he came home she was waiting for him. When he left she didn't criticize him or quarrel with her husband about him. She brought in other young people more to her liking and without her husband's knowing she weaned him away from the old friend whom she thought had a bad influence over him.

I think it is a serious mistake for a woman to go to bed at night with mascara on her eyelashes. But they were of the opinion that if he won't let her dictate to him about his friends and if he did she would have no respect for him. Worse and more of it: the wife who makes such a point with her husband in making it impossible for him to be friends with her. She will wake up some day to find herself out in the cold. Perhaps a true story of a woman who had this problem may help you. She is much as you do about her husband's best friend but she was clever enough to conceal it. ## Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield:

When I was a mere child I was married to a splendid man. We hadn't been married more than two years when I realized that my feeling for him was that of a child for father or brother. I was restless and dissatisfied and wanted to go to him for comfort but couldn't bring myself to do it. I think this was due to my unwillingness to hurt him. Then I met a man who went to my heart straight as an arrow. We were thrown together and discovered that the feeling was mutual. Knowing it was wrong I begged him to get married as this was the only possible solution I could see. I grieved so my husband asked me what was wrong but I kept my secret, thinking time would straighten things out. Miss Chatfield, this has been going on for 14 years and the man I love and am nervous wrecks. His marriage while all right on the surface is like mine. What can I do? Must I go through this to the end of my life, the brink of despair or should I tell my husband the truth? I hate divorce and I don't want to hurt my husband or the other people under this strain. I am about to break under this strain.

ANGUISHED.

Answer:

Come clean with your husband; tell him the whole story from start to finish, and you will be unbelievably eased in mind and heart. My dear woman, peace cannot be bought at the price you are paying. It is quite possible that once you have rid yourself of the sense of guilt toward him, by confiding in him, the nagging, the pangs of heart hunger are something to reckon with but they are not so anguishing as the pangs of a guilty conscience. It is this sort of pain that drives one to despair, wrecking nerves and destroying happiness.

With a little encouragement a woman can build up such a dream of love that she believes in its implicitly. But the truth is that she is to settle down to 24 hours a day living with the man about whom her dream is built, she would find him "pretty awful" just as she has found the man with whom she lives. Love is one thing and love in the reality quite another. You see she sees the personification of romance. She brushes his arm and the sparks fly. They speak and it is of love and roses. They build a fairy castle in which no ugly thing enters and there they live in imagination. Then she comes home to the husband who is as all husbands are sooner or later, matter of fact and unromantic. She imagines that the difference is the men. But no; the difference is between the dream of love and the reality of living.

Having made such a valiant fight to save your marriage from the rocks, don't give up the ship until you have thrown overboard the wreck of the guilty conscience. You have learned that there is no limit to the time you can give to the choice of the colors carefully.

I think it is a serious mistake for a woman to go to bed at night with mascara on her eyelashes. There are many excellent eyelash creams on the market and there is always white vaseline that they can use after they have removed the war paint at night. If they do not want to bother about this it won't do them any good when it is too late to take care of their looks. Remove the mascara with cream—any kind of cold cream or with vaseline, and then thoroughly oil the lashes with an eyelash cream, sweet oil or white vaseline. But whatever you do, try the new blue mascara to see how it will help you to get the sport about it. If he has any spirit he won't let her dictate to him about his friends and if he did she would have no respect for him. Worse and more of it: the wife who makes such a point with her husband in making it impossible for him to be friends with her. She will wake up some day to find herself out in the cold. Women Past 45. Out called from. Headaches—Dizzy Spells. Flashes—"Nerves". These symptoms at 45 are often due to a deficiency in the glandular system of a certain hormone (female sex hormone) which is secreted by the ovaries. This hormone is essential for the normal functioning of the body. It is a natural law that as we grow older, the glands of the body become less active and the secretion of this hormone is reduced. This condition is known as "menopause" and it is a normal part of the aging process. It is not a disease, but it can cause many unpleasant symptoms. ## Miss Chotas Weds Mr. Cotsakis At Greek Orthodox Ceremony

MRS. GEORGE JAMES COTSAKIS.

With only close relatives present, Miss Helene Chotas became the bride of George James Cotsakis on Sunday at a Greek Orthodox wedding ceremony at the home of her mother on Piedmont road. Rev. Panos Constantines performed the ceremony.

The gala occasion of the week will be the "outdoor day," at Fernbank, Saturday, November 2, at 10 o'clock. A day of games and singing and general fun is being planned by Mrs. H. D. ## Atlanta Federation Meets At Driving Club October 29

The general meeting of the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs convened under the presidency of Mrs. George Ripley, will be held October 29 at 10:30 o'clock at the Piedmont Driving Club. Of particular interest to clubwomen and those concerned with social and community welfare is the luncheon program featuring an address by Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth, head of the Volunteers of America, and a talk by Mrs. Adena Miller Rich, of Hull House, Chicago's great social center made famous by the immortal Jane Addams.

Dr. M. L. Brittain, chairman of the local committee of the prison congress, will introduce Mrs. Booth and Mrs. Miller, who will be among the distinguished women attending the congress October 27-31. Miss Weldon wore leaf green; Mrs. Hine's gown was of coral rust; Mrs. Ford was attired in royal blue and Miss Mary Cousins wore garnet.

The bride entered with her father, Edmond L. Hines, who gave her in marriage. They were met at the altar by the groom and his brother, George Weldon, who acted as best man. The bride's robes were of white antique satin. The veil of white tulle was caught to her blond hair by orange blossoms. She carried a muff of orchids and valley lilies.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents entertained at a reception at their home. Mr. Weldon and his bride left for a wedding trip in the North Carolina mountains. Upon their return they will reside in Griffin.

Landis Pays Tigers $6,544.76 Each---Biggest Series Cut

Cubs' Shares Withheld With Rumors Rife Fines Are Coming.

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today sliced up the biggest World Series player melon in the history of baseball, giving each of the world's championship Detroit Tigers a cut worth $6,544.76, but he withheld the losers' shares belonging to the Chicago Cubs. Although many observers suspected that the Cub cut, worth $4,198.52 to each player, was held back for fine levying purposes because of their arguments and battles with American League umpire George Moriarty, the commissioner explained the delay by saying, "We haven't had time yet to mail their checks out."

"Do you plan to fine any of the Cubs for their battles with Moriarty?" he was asked.

"If anything is to be announced along that line, you'll hear about it in plenty of time," he parried. "No, the Cub checks haven't been held back for any special reason except that we haven't had time yet to mail them. Why, we haven't paid the official scorers yet."

Meanwhile, rumors were current that Manager Charlie Grimm, Captain Elwood English and Shortstop Bill Jurgens, of the Cubs, would be fined $500 each for their outbursts against Moriarty during the series. English, so the rumors went, was almost certain to receive a fine as he was one of the leaders in razzing Moriarty and Detroit players.

In receiving $6,544.76 apiece, the Tigers beat the former high individual cut obtained by the New York Giants as winners of the 1923 series over the New York Yankees. Each of the 1923 Giants received $8,143.49. The Cubs just missed collecting a record losers' cut. In the 1932 series against the Yankees, they received $4,244.60 with their now famous "right wad" cut, so named because they split their melon into only 18 slices.

The $100,000 from radio rights, coupled with near capacity crowds at Navin and Wrigley fields, accounted for the record cut, gross receipts also came close to the record, totaling $1,173,704 as against the mark set in the St. Louis Cardinal-Yankee series in 1926 of $1,207,864. Commissioner

THOMAS SAYS CRIMSON TIDE HAS NO POWER

Sees Close Game Against Bulldogs, However; Vols Were Weak.

By Ralph McGill.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 22.—Frank Thomas sees a slight edge for Georgia's football team on Saturday afternoon when the Bulldogs and the Crimson Tide meet before some 25,000 of our fairest and finest in Sanford field at Athens.

"No one can honestly rate a team which has been tied once and defeated once as an even bet against an eleven which is admittedly one of the finest Georgia has had, and which is unbeaten and untied," said the head football coach here as he started his team on the long drill today.

"We lost to Mississippi State and we were tied by Howard. We will be in our best shape of the year, but that means we start three men not in the best of shape and must play one whose leg bone is fractured," said Thomas. He referred to Bear Bryant, the big end, who played against Tennessee with one small leg bone fractured. Doctors permitted it after a special wrapping had been provided that bound the leg tightly and Bryant played despite the severe pain.

BACKS INFERIOR.

"We do not have much power this year," said Thomas, "and our backs are not nearly as good as the ones of last year. We do not have nearly the speed Georgia has, nor the reserve backs."

"Still, I think we will play a good game and that will be close. But there is no chance to figure our beaten and tied team as a favorite against the team Georgia coaches say is the best one Georgia ever had," he said.

Your correspondent had come to Tuscaloosa to find out the Tuscaloosa angle of the game, which is one of the two great games scheduled in the south for Saturday, the other being the Vanderbilt-L. S. U. game at Nashville.

There seems to be some mistake about it. Over at Athens they are saying Alabama is the favorite and that Georgia is very much the underdog. Here Frank Thomas rather vehemently asks how his crippled team, defeated and tied, can be rated as the favorite and disclaims the position.

DISORGANIZED.

"The Tennessee game," he said, "was the real tipoff on our strength. We haven't got any power. Instead of indicating any return to power it plainly showed we haven't got it. I never saw a worse disorganized team than Tennessee, especially after the first half. And yet we were able to score only four touchdowns. They went out on their feet, sagging badly, and we had no punch to run up any impressive total of points. That game was the tipoff to me. If we had it we would have scored three or four more touchdowns."

"It was difficult to get steam up this year. The boys who had been to the Rose Bowl were thinking about that. I guess. And then we had injuries. Riley Smith and Joe Riley were out. Then came three ends with injuries and Jim Whitley with another. No team can make any progress in that condition."

"We've got a good team and we'll play a good game, but don't try to put us in the favorite's spot against an unbeaten and untied team with the great offensive and defensive record Georgia has. You know they not only held North Carolina State scoreless but their defense was good enough to stop them for four downs on the one-yard line. Try, and find where we stopped someone's saint's stocky coach as he got his men started."

ONE WORTH SEEING.

At any rate, it looks like a great game, one of those worth traveling far to see.

Georgia does have an edge in speed and probably in power. The kicking looks about even. The passing should be about even, with Alabama probably superior at end. That is, of course, unless Bear Bryant's leg is broken all the way through.

With both coaches avoiding the favorite's spot, the game appears about even, with Georgia having the greatest chance in years to square things with their old rivals from Tuscaloosa. Alabama will work Friday at Tech and then move to Athens Saturday morning.

DISCOVERY WINS CINCINNATI RACE

CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's Discovery, the year's champion four-year-old, splashed through heavy mud to a 12-length victory in the $10,000 Cincinnati Handicap at Coney Island today.

Golden Rock placed second, and Open Hearth third. Discovery closed at 4-to-1.

Ten were named overnight to start in the mile and a quarter test, but all but six dropped out of the closing-day feature because of the heavy going.

Joe Louis' Ma Returns Money

DETROIT, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Brooks family, through the fistic magic that marked Joe Louis' sensational rise in the boxing world, evened financial accounts today with the Detroit welfare department.

Mrs. Lilly Brooks, mother of Joe, delivered to John F. Ballenger, welfare superintendent, a check for $269 in full payment of the aid given her family of 20 during seven months of 1927-28.

"I'm very happy to be able to repay the welfare department for what it did for my family when we needed help so badly," smiled the portly mother of the young negro fighter.

At the time the aid was extended the Brooks family consisted of Mrs. Brooks, her husband, their nine children, and Mrs. Brooks' nine children by a previous marriage—among them Joe, 13 years old at the time. Joe's real name is Joe Louis Barrow.

As Jo Jo Joined the Elks at Dinner Here

In the above picture, snapped last night by Turner Hiers, of The Constitution staff, Jo Jo White, the Detroit Tigah man, is shown signing his autograph on an application to become a member of the Atlanta Lodge No. 78, B. P. O. E., while Manager Eddie Moore, of the Crackers, seated at left, looks interestedly on. Standing, left to right, are Best People Cal Cates, Carlos Hemperley and J. Schley Thompson. Cates, incidentally, is captain of the opposing team, Ford, in the drive for membership. Thompson, captain of the Chevrolet team, was given credit for securing White's application. White and Moore are honor guests and speakers at a dinner given by the Good Fellowship committee last night at the Elks' club.

DICK DAVIS COURT PINS ROCHE HERE

Dick Davis court added another victory to his Atlanta string with a one-fall decision over Darve Roche, the Scranton coal miner, Tuesday night at the city auditorium. Davis court applied the same leg twist to Roche that sent Frank Speer to the canvas last week, and the Pennsylvanian was unable to return for the second fall. The one fall was clocked in 36 minutes.

In the semi-final, Joe Cox, the rough Kansas City veteran, wrestled Rudy Stronberg, big German, to a one-hour draw.

Bob Wagner won a 14-minute decision over Dick Lever in the one-fall preliminary.

Another large crowd saw the matches and was given some fast and furious action.

The opening match was one of the roughest that has been seen in a long while. Wagner was continually warned, but paid little attention to the referee and kept up the rough tactics. Lever began to rough the match near the end, but was no match for a series of body slams and forearm blows.

Cox and Stronberg followed with another exhibition of rough-and-tumble holds, with neither having any advantage. Cox won the first fall in 43 minutes with a series of body slams. Stronberg came back and squared accounts in seven minutes with body slams and a leg twist. The remainder of the time was about even.

Using his powerful forearm to advantage, Davis court appeared to have an advantage all the way.

Jo Jo White, Ed Moore Honor Guests at Dinner

Cracker Pilot Says Class B Rule Means Changed Lineup in 1936; Majors Discard "Squeeze."

By Jack Troy.

Jo Jo White, the Tigah man, is now one of the "best people on earth." (Detroit baseball fans have maintained for years that the fleet outfielder was the salt of the earth, anyway.)

But last night Jojo White signed his autograph on an application to join the Atlanta Lodge No. 78, B. P. O. E. And on November 19, Jo Jo will become a full-fledged member, that being the date set for his initiation.

And there was a dinner given by the Good Fellowship committee for the membership committee in their campaign for members for the Joseph T. Fanning class. And Jo Jo, the Tigah man, and Eddie Moore, manager of Atlanta's pennant-winning Southern league team, were present as honored guests.

Eddie Moore, incidentally, is a member of the Atlanta Elks Club, having transferred from the New Albany (Ind.) lodge.

So Eddie and Jo Jo were called upon for speeches.

Eddie paid high tribute to White, against whom he played in 1934. And Eddie told a story about the time he thought he had Jo Jo trapped between first and second.

"Jo Jo took a lead off first," Eddie told the assembled Elks. "I was playing with Cleveland and big, gangling Hal Trosky was the first baseman. Well, Jo Jo jockeyed back and forth and suddenly burst back toward first base. Trosky always had trouble bending down and I threw the ball just a bit better than knee high. The throw hit him on the inside of the leg and rolled on past first base. Jo Jo meanwhile ran on to third. And he said to me, did Jo Jo, I have never seen such a look of surprise as he registered on your face."

NEXT YEAR.

Eddie Moore told the Elks about his ball club of 1935 and about the team he expected to have next spring.

BULLDOGS WORK ON PASS ATTACK AGAINST 'BAMA

Only Rough of Week's Practice Slated for Today.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 23.—Georgia's Bulldog gridders today sharpened their passing attack with apparently good effect, before giving over the gridiron to the reserves for a long defensive scrimmage against a mixed team of "Red I-wills" and freshmen.

First-tryers will probably be given their first and only dose of rough work of the week Wednesday afternoon. The second team in the meantime is slated to see much service in an effort to organize and otherwise strengthen their weapons. With most of their key men in condition workouts are very effective this week.

Indications are that the largest crowd to jam Sanford stadium since the Tulane game in 1931 will see the Alabama-Georgia struggle Saturday. Advance sale is brisk, which is usually a good indication of the size of crowds. Reserve seats are selling for $2.50, while general admission seats may be purchased for $1.50. The kick-off is scheduled for 3 o'clock, eastern time.

SCRUBS HELD.

Using Alabama plays the scrubs this afternoon broke away but once or twice. Bill Hartman, fullback; Pete Tinsley, guard, and Buddy Milner, center, were showing good form defensively. Milner broke through and threw one "red" for a long loss. Hartman and Tinsley were also very effective in stopping the plays.

Starting lineup for the second team was Hugh O'Farrell and Charlie Harlow, ends; Roy Gatchell and John Davis, tackles; J. C. Hall and Pete Tinsley, guards; Buddy Milner, center; Lew Young, quarterback; Johnny Jones and Andy Roddenberry, halves, and Bill Hartman, fullback.

In Rhordanz and Mickey Riley Alabama has two runners who will be hard for the Bulldogs to stop. The former is especially good on reverse plays. Riley delights in skirting the opponents' ends. When Rhordanz is out of the game Nesbit goes in at the fullback post. Ed Stapp is substitute for Riley at left halfback.

Two versions of the Notre Dame system evolved by the late Knute Rockne, as perpetuated by two of his pupils, will be on display.

Georgia is an offensive team while Alabama might be taken as a defensive eleven. Frank Thomas used a short punt formation while Mehre clings to the Notre Dame style. Where Georgia favors using a great number of players on offense, the Red Elephants rely on the outstanding offensive player a great deal. Georgia substitutes much and offener. These are Athletic Director Stegeman's ratings as chief differences between the two Notre Dame systems.

Max Baer Refuses Comeback Offers

ROSEVILLE, Cal., Oct. 22.—(UP)—Max Baer, pugilistic prodigy of Livermore, who was convinced by Joe Louis that he should become a cattle raiser, will turn down offers for a comeback fight in Oakland next February. Ancil Hoffman, his manager, said today.

"Max is on the fence," Hoffman said. "Sometimes he wants to fight, and sometimes he doesn't."

Leo Leavitt, Oakland promoter, has said he is ready to offer Baer $20,000 for a bout with "Butch" Rogers, Los Angeles slugger, February 22 in Emeryville ball park.

Georgia Tech Suffers Letdown; Scrimmage Is Unimpressive

DUKE TRIUMPH ROBS JACKETS OF OLD DRIVE

North Carolina Figures Far Superior Eleven to Blue Devils.

By Jack Troy.

There was, it appeared, an obvious and perhaps natural letdown on the part of the varsity players of Georgia Tech yesterday as the first scrimmage against North Carolina played was staged at the Rose Bowl.

True, the freshmen did not gain very much ground during the long drive, but this seemed to be more the fault of the freshmen than of the varsity.

The freshmen had had only one day to master the single wing back formation of the Tarheels and they were not functioning with anything akin to precision.

The freshmen were prone to stumble into their own interferences and, at times, cut back right into the arms of their own blockers. And then there were times that a freshman player actually started to run or pass and fell over his own feet.

And yet, on the other hand, the varsity players were not doing any sensational work. For in the few times that the freshmen cracked, they gained some ground.

HARD TO TELL.

It was rather difficult to tell whether the Jackets had that old satisfied feeling after knocking off the Duke or whether they simply were in the throes of a natural letdown.

At any rate, there will be another scrimmage today and Tech coaches are hoping for an improved showing. There was not much to feel encouraged about yesterday.

Captain (Bob) Lety Eubanks got into yesterday's scrimmage for a short time. It was after Bud Lindsay got a blow on the head and was taken out. Lindsay was out on his feet rather briefly, but was all right at the end of the practice.

Dick Beard was given some work yesterday in backing up the line, along with Red Collins, reserve center. Fulton Brittain worked at guard in place of Sophomore Jack Nixon, who has a knee injury.

SAME TEAM.

Otherwise, the varsity team was no different than the team that battled Duke's Blue Devils black and blue. Fletcher Sims, quarterback, was rather ineffective because of a wrist injury and later his place was taken by Lawrence Hays.

It was an altogether unimpressive scrimmage and did not bode so well for the Jackets as they prepare for a North Carolina team that is conceded to be anywhere from two to three touchdowns better than Duke.

There were a couple of cheering notes, at that. Mit Fitzsimons charged in and made tackles in a very satisfying manner. And Jim Morgan, left end, was on his toes and the toes of the freshmen a large part of the time.

It is asking a lot of a team to reach such heights as in the Duke game two Saturdays ago in a row, however. And if the Jackets players do not respond, it may be perfectly natural.

TWO FINE BACKS.

In Don Jackson and Jim Hutchins. North Carolina said it had the two of the finest backs in the south. Jackson is a great runner and Hutchins is a powerhouse plunger.

Then, too, Dick Buck, Tarheel end, is already being rated All-American material after his showing against Davidson.

North Carolina warmed up for the Tech game by playing Davidson and should be in tip-top shape for Tech. They are saying in the Carolinas, at that, that the Tarheels are set to avenge the defeat of Duke and preserve the high standard set by Carolina teams.

The Rose Bowl atmosphere is very heavy around Chapel Hill. The scent of the roses is in the air.

Tarheels Work Hard For Invading Tech.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Oct. 22.—Coach Carl Shavely expressed his opinion of Georgia Tech today with action instead of words by sending the Carolina gridders through their first hard scrimmage in several weeks.

Mentor Shavely apparently is preparing for what he expects to be his hardest game so far this season. The Jackets came here Saturday for homecoming day.

The skirmish was held against the first-string freshmen. The No. 1 varsity started the short game and completely outplayed the yearlings. To count the scores, the varsity would have won 4 touchdowns to 1.

Crowell Little and Bobbie Stewart started in the places of Don Jackson and Jim Hutchins, respectively. These two stood out. Stewart pliffed his way time after time through the line while Little squirmed through several times.

The rest of the lineup remained intact with the exception of Bill Moore at Dick Buck's end and Henry Bartos as John Trimpey's tackle. Buck received a blow on the leg early in the afternoon and took things easy. Trimpey is still withheld with an injury received in the Davidson game.

Connie Expects To Retain Foxx, And Other Aces

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The sign was pointed today against the sale of First Baseman Jimmy Foxx, of the Athletics, despite the frequent rumors that have had the burly slugger going to any one of four clubs before the 1936 season starts.

Connie Mack himself denied the possibility of a sale or trade, while from Boston came word that Manager Joe Cronin, of the Red Sox, frequently mentioned as bidding for Foxx, would stick by First Baseman Dahlgren for 1936.

Mack, returning from New York where he had been reported conferring with Red Sox and New York Yankee officials, announced he will be "very much surprised if I make any kind of a deal with another American league club."

"I think that every one of my regulars, including Foxx, Roger Cramer, Eric McNair and Frank Higgins, will still be in Athletic uniforms next year," he stated emphatically.

"I made no deals or even had any negotiations while I was away. In fact, I saw no baseball men at all."

Cramer, McNair and Higgins all had been rumored as up for sale along with Foxx. In addition to the Red Sox and Yankees, the Cleveland Indians and Chicago White Sox also have been mentioned as interested in Mack's stars.

GABBY HARTNETT 'MOST VALUABLE'

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Third baseman of the Chicago Cubs to receive the honor, Charles (Gabby) Hartnett, peppy catcher of the National league champions, today was adjudged the league's most valuable player in 1935.

A veteran of 13 years' service with the Cubs and a key figure in the club's drive to the pennant, Hartnett defeated Jerome Hernandez (Dizzy) Dean, the 1934 winner, by nine points in the race for the award given by the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The results of the contest, announced by James C. Leasinger, of the Philadelphia Inquirer, chairman of the award committee, showed Hartnett topping the field with 75 points, Dean rolled 66 points; Floyd (Arky) Vaughan, of the Pittsburgh Pirates, 45; Billy Herman of the Cubs, 38, and Joe Medwick, of the Cardinals, 37.

Other players with 20 points or more were: All told, 27 players figured in the voting.

Previously Rogers Hornsby, in 1929, and Hank Wilson, in 1930, snared the coveted award for the Cubs. Hornsby, incidentally, won it twice—the first time as a member of the Cardinals in 1925. The Cardinals, with five winners since the award was established in 1924, top all rivals in that respect. The Cubs are second. The Dodgers, Giants, Pirates and Phillies each have furnished one winner.

ROMANOFF TOPS WRESTLING CARD

George Romanoff, former ape man of the movies, and John Ellis, New York Greek, will headline a wrestling card in the city auditorium Thursday night at 8:15 o'clock. It will be the first of a series of regular weekly matches during the fall and winter months under the direction of Promoters Roby and Bettis.

The main match will be best two-out-of-three falls, a one-hour limit. Tarzan Jordan returns to the wrestling wars after an absence of two months in the one-hour, semi-final against Al Olson, the Terrible Swede.

Joe Wolf, Cincinnati, returns here to meet John Mandlin in the 30-minute opener, to settle an old argument. Ladies will be admitted free with a paid escort and popular prices will prevail.

Olson was recently arrested by city policemen for extreme roughing and promises to make the match with Jordan interesting in the ring as well as for the spectators.

Romanoff is one of the most popular wrestlers. He has studied the sport from all angles and can rough with the best of them. And should his opponent resort only to the most scientific holds, then Romanoff can give and take plenty of them.

Freddie Miller Keeps His Title

BOSTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Freddie Miller, of Cincinnati, retained his world featherweight championship by outboxing Vernon Cormier, rugged Worcester brawler, all through a 15-round title bout before a slim crowd of 4,500 tonight at the Boston Garden.

Miller weighed 124 3/4 and the challenger, who slugged from bell to bell, scaled 125 1/2.

THE TRAIN STOPS AT DEL RIO, TEXAS.

A big fellow came trotting out and the train stopped at Del Rio, Texas.

The mind can do things like that. It was Bill Young, the big tackle who was taken from the Alabama special train at Del Rio last December as the Alabama team moved west to the Rose Bowl.

They took Bill Young from the train that night and operated on him for appendicitis, an emergency operation. I'll never forget the train coming to a halt that night. We all wondered why.

And then the word spread that Young had been stricken with the acute attack. Birmingham physicians, on the train, took him to the small hospital and acted as orderlies while one performed the operation.

We waited, looking at the lights across the river to Mexico, until the operation was done.

Today Young came out and reported doctors had said his elbow, badly twisted in the Tennessee game, would be all right within two days and he could play Saturday.

This year he has been one of Thomas' best linemen.

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Oct. 22.—When the Alabama team trots on Sanford field at Athens next Saturday pick out Paul (Bear) Bryant's number and locate him. When your eyes are on it lift your hat.

You will be looking at a man.

I came all the way here to see the Alabama team in action before that Georgia game next Saturday. And to see Paul Bryant.

The stories said he suffered a fractured leg bone in the Howard game. Last week he was a star as Alabama beat Tennessee 25-0. The stories said he played despite the fractured leg.

He did. It was no press agent's dream, no doctor's error. The fibula bone, which is the small one in the leg, was broken in his right leg in the Howard game. I saw the X-rays. And I saw Bear Bryant's leg still almost twice its size today.

He did not have on a uniform all week before the Tennessee game. He will not have on a uniform this week until Thursday or Friday.

He wanted to play against Tennessee. His team is badly crippled now. It was worse crippled last week. Doctors told him if he could stand the pain they could bind the leg so a further break was impossible.

"Bind it," said Bear Bryant.

If pain was all, he could, and would stand that. He played most of the football game, hobbling on that broken leg.

"How many men do you know who could do that?" I asked Frank Thomas, the head coach.

"Not many," said Thomas. Which is more than I know. All I know is Paul Bryant.

THE MATTER OF PAIN.

I sat with Bryant today on the benches outside the gym where the players come to put on their shoes.

"Did it hurt very much?" I asked, realizing at the time it was an insane question.

"Well," he said, "every time my weight came down on it I knew it was there. And if I stubbed my toe or anyone hit it, why it hurt."

He played some 30 minutes in that game. And started.

He hobbled out on the field and watched today's practice. He played at least part of the time Saturday.

As far as this season is concerned Paul Bryant is in first place in the courage league.

There was no bear story about Bear Bryant. He played football with a crack through one of his leg bones.

When you have a top for this story let me know.

SCARS FELL ON ALABAMA.

In asking what happened to Alabama this season this may be the answer. Alabama has had more injuries this year than in the past two seasons put together.

This is an amazing thing but true—the week before the Tennessee game three of Alabama's regular ends, Captain Jim Walker, Hillman Walker and Paul Bryant did not have on a uniform for practice. And Whatley, tackle, also was not in uniform.

Before the Howard game Riley Smith's leg was in a cast for two weeks. He played for a while in the Washington game and was so out of condition it made him ill. He isn't ready yet, an attack of boils having him ill at present.

Frank Thomas wasn't telling stories about them. He calls Riley Smith in from the dressing room. There are five on his back and three on his arms.

Joe Riley returned to condition for the Tennessee game. Jimmy Angelich was able to play his first real game last Saturday. All these injuries, plus the loss of the five stars of the 1934 Rose Bowl team, make a difference.

Scars fell on Alabama this year.

READY FOR GEORGIA.

You ask Frank Thomas about the Georgia game.

"We'll be crippled but we'll be in better shape for it than any game this year," he said. "If that means anything."

"I honestly think Georgia has an edge. I don't see how anyone can figure any other way. But I think we will give them a good game. It should be close or we may lose by a few touchdowns."

"Our scouts report Georgia has a fine team. They won from North Carolina State, without using passes, laterals or many of their reserves. In other words here was a team able to take a good rugged team with straight plays. They did not have to put on the pressure enough to open up and go to work. It was a difficult game as they played it."

"If Georgia won by that score with straight bucks and end runs they could have scored four or five touchdowns by opening up the offense," he said. "That is pretty obvious."

"But you will be in better shape for Georgia?"

"The best shape we've been in all year, but remember that means one sick man and one with a broken leg bone."

I have been sold several bills of goods in my day but this one wasn't a sale. I took a look at all these. At any rate that's the Alabama side of it. Which is what I came here to learn.

SEWANEES SEEKS TO RECAPTURE GLORY OF 1927

Clark Believes Mountaineers Have Chance To Win.

SEWANEES, Tenn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—When they take the field against Tulane's Green Wave at New Orleans Saturday, the purple-clad warriors of the University of the South will be fighting to recapture some of the glory of their 1927 season.

It was in that year that Sewanee trampled the Greenies last, winning, 12-6, in a bitterly-fought battle.

Despite a crippled and greatly-outweighed crew, Coach Hek Clark thinks the assignment is not impossible and the players think likewise.

Clark believes the Gopher game may have taken quite a bit out of the Greenies, explaining "while we have a small, light team composed mostly of sophomores and juniors, Tulane is a big, heavy team."

He praised the spirit of his Tigers, once the source of Dixie gridironers, and added that "the boys, of course, are going in to win from Tulane. They go into every game with the idea of winning and Saturday's contest will be no exception."

Sewanee, winner in six of 14 previous engagements with Tulane, has three first stringers out for the season, further weakening a team that averages only 180 pounds.

Undaunted, the players have set nothing short of triumph as their goal. Jimmy Blair, veteran mainstay at center, thinks "we'll beat Tulane if things work out all right, but win or lose, those boys will know they've been in a game."

Forsaking the team at the beginning of the season to concentrate on his studies, Pinky Young, end, reported to Coach Clark last week, "I felt as if I had to put on a uniform," he said. "I couldn't stay away with so many of the boys out with injuries."

The trio of regulars out for the season are Hugh Shelton, end, broken leg; Bud Pearson, halfback, broken jawbone and Wyatt Brown, halfback, injured knee.

Clark and about 30 men will leave here Thursday afternoon for New Orleans.

THE STRANGE CASE OF JOE LOUIS.

Dr. William Lyon Phelps, of Yale—better known as Billy Phelps, the golfing scholar—had just rapped one down the middle. Walter Prichard Eaton, one of the drama's leading mandarins, had followed suit. Gene Tunney, out in 39, had boomed one up the course. After your correspondent had also kicked off, the conversation suddenly switched from the main causes of slicing and the glory of the autumn woods to Gene Tunney's slant on Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber.

"We have here," Tunney said, "the strangest case in the history of pugilism. We have in Louis a young fellow who at 21 has established himself as the No. 1 fighter of the world—possibly the greatest all-around fighting man of all time. Yet we have to reach this last verdict in our faith on form—not from proof in competition, for he has had practically no competition at all from any of his late competitors."

"We know Louis is fast and clever—that he is a good boxer who can hit and punish with either hand—that he is strong and always in condition—that he is cool and cunning—that he has outclassed his field—but no one still knows for certain just what he could do against a good fighter willing to fight back in his last three big fights, against Carnera, Levinsky and Max Baer, he might just as well have been showing his stuff against three punchin' bags with nothing to get him off balance or crowd him at any time."

"There's a big difference," Tunney continued, "in how you look and what you can show when they let you make every move you want to make, without any hurry, worry or interference. It isn't so easy when the other fellow is fighting back with something to show."

Louis Vs. the All-Time Field.

"How would you compare Louis with the best fighters you've ever seen?" Dr. Phelps asked.

"I want to see him against a fellow who can fight a little and who will fight back, before I answer that question," Tunney replied. "Louis, without any question, is the greatest young fighter of all time. To show all the stuff he has at 21 is about the most amazing thing I've ever seen in any sport. But suppose he had to go against a fine boxer and a good puncher like Tom Gibbons and in his prime. Or suppose he had to meet the speed and power and ring spirit of Jack Dempsey at Toledo. He might have knocked them both out. Perhaps he might have. But that is something we don't know."

"Balance—both on the mental and physical side—is one of the big factors in sport. It isn't any trick to keep your mental poise and balance when you soon find the other fellow isn't even going to hit at you. It isn't hard to keep your physical balance when no one even tries to crowd you. Louis, facing the Dempsey of Toledo, would have a lot of things to worry about that he has never had to bother with so far. In the wake of that Dempsey charge, with both hands shooting for head or body, where speed, power and courage were combined, he would never be able to keep his physical balance. He showed against such easy targets as Carnera, Levinsky and Baer, who were out before they ever entered the ring."

The pressure of competition, especially hard competition, can make a terrific difference in form and style and final results.

Other Cases.

"I recall distinctly the cases of three other colored fighters," Tunney said. "They were Panama Joe Gans, Kid Norfolk and Harry Wills. When I was coming on, they were considered invincible—world beaters and the rest of it. They were—until they met a few good fighters—and then it was another story. They used to tell me what Wills would do to Dempsey if they ever met. It was going to be murder. If they had met I don't think Wills would have gone three rounds. Sharkey, Paulino and even Firpo, who couldn't box a lick, proved that."

"I am willing to concede that Louis is the best equipped ring man I ever saw—up to the point of knowing what he might do against a real fighter willing to fight—against a good, fast left hand with a good one—too. No one can tell me he can't be hit, because I know he can. There never was a fighter who couldn't be hit—and hurt. But how many fighters ever had a chance to reach the top against such feeble marks as Carnera, Levinsky and Baer—three opponents who made no effort of any kind to fight a lick."

"If Louis had been up against the Harry Greb I first fought in Madison Square Garden, he would at least have known he had been in a battle when that wildcat came to him clawing, punching and mauling with both hands busy, backed up by a heart as big as two rings."

Amateur Game Tops East

ELI IS FAVORED JUST AS IN 1934, WHEN SHE TELL

Bears and Trojans Clash in Important Coast Tilt.

By Bob Cavagnaro.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The last football game of the season today was one of the nation's leading college games. It marks the halfway stage of the big push, where the corresponding date a year ago is remembered for its record of defeat among outstanding eleven.

Yale, possibly the big team of the east, is scheduled to play Army in the big bowl at New Haven. Both are undefeated. Army has plenty of scorers, but Yale probably will go into the game the favorite.

However, starting the Eli in the face will be the 20-12 defeat of the West Point Cadets during the season.

Another team that will be playing with its collective fingers crossed all afternoon will be the California Bears. The Bears have been beaten in five starts and are down for a game against the trampled Trojans of Southern California. In 1934, with a record of four wins and one defeat, the Bears were knocked off by Washington. The memory of that defeat is particularly distressing. It had a demoralizing effect on what started out as a promising season.

If you believe in jinxes, it doesn't look too bright for the big teams in the south. The University of Mississippi has won five in a row and will meet the undefeated Marquette eleven. Mississippi dropped a 15-10 defeat last year. The Georgia Bulldogs, who have escaped defeat in four games, will take on the revived Alabama Crimson Tide. It was the Tide that submerged the Bulldog a year ago.

The unbeaten North Carolina Tar Heels, held to a 7-0 tie by North Carolina State a year ago, meet Georgia Tech, surprise winner over Duke last week. Vanderbilt's Commodores are matched against Louisiana State.

In the previous season L. S. U. swamped them, 9 to 0.

The same "last Saturday in October" jinx hangs over the heads of such other eleven as Iowa, scheduled to meet a formidable Illinois team; Holy Cross, against their Nemesis of a year ago, Yale; and Texas, which will find Rice tough to handle on the rebound.

JACOBS TO AD GARDEN STAFF

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mike Jacobs will be associated with Madison Square Garden in promoting two indoor boxing shows.

Louis' first appearance in the Garden in December will take the Detroit youngster against Pauline Uzunian, veteran Basque woodchopper, for the benefit of the Christmas fund. His second bout, in March, will be against an opponent yet to be selected, possibly Walter Neusel, of Germany.

Under the terms of an agreement that still awaits official approval by the Garden's board of directors, the Garden will take 1-2 percent of the net profits of each of the two shows. The Garden board was to meet later today to give final approval.

In view of the successful end of his negotiations with the Garden, Jacobs said he would be glad to see the Garden remodel the New York coliseum, big arena in the Bronx. The promoter, who has been in the business for years, has announced several days ago he would promote boxing at the coliseum if unable to swing any deal with the Garden.

Although the agreement between Jacobs and the Garden covers only two bouts, boxing observers regarded it as likely to lead to a more or less permanent arrangement, paving the way for a championship meeting next year between Louis and Jim Braddock.

Louis is under contract to fight until 1940; Braddock, the champion, is tied up with the Garden.

Cubs and Tigers Play Next Spring

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Chicago Cubs will get at least one chance for partial revenge against the Detroit Tigers next year.

In an ambitious spring training schedule, extending from California through Florida, the Cubs today announced they had scheduled an exhibition with the Tigers at Lakeland, Fla., for March 27.

A total of 25 games, chiefly against major league teams, will be on the Cub spring schedule, which follows:

March 13, 14, 15, Chicago White Sox at Los Angeles.
March 18, Pittsburgh at San Antonio, Texas.
March 19, Houston at Houston.
March 20, Cleveland at New Orleans.
March 21 and 22, New York Giants at Philadelphia.
March 23, Giants at Selma, Ala.
March 24, Giants at Dallas, Ala.
March 25, Giants at Pensacola, Fla.
March 26, Giants at Tallahassee, Fla.
March 27, Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.
March 28, Cincinnati at Tampa, Fla.
March 29, New York Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla.
March 30, St. Louis Cardinals at Bradenton, Fla.
March 31, Brooklyn at Clearwater, Fla.
April 1, Philadelphia Nationals at Winter Haven, Fla.
April 2, Boston Red Sox at Sarasota, Fla.
April 3, Birmingham at Birmingham.
April 4, Nashville at Nashville.
April 10, 11, 12, White Sox at Chicago.

Waycross To Meet Moultrie on Friday

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Waycross High school football team, undefeated in four starts this season, enters the tougher part of its schedule this week-end, and closes the slate on November 22 with Hazlehurst in Waycross.

The Hazlehurst game has been scheduled as a substitute for the Blakely contest, school authorities revealed.

Friday night the Bulldogs encounter the strong Moultrie outfit, a team that has gone places during recent years, under the coaching of Pede Phillips. Moultrie is undefeated this season, and undefeated onough they have two scoreless ties on their record.

The game is being heralded as one of the highlights of the entire South Georgia interscholastic season.

Georgia's Ranked Tenth In Williamson Rating System

Despite goofy outcomes that were contrary to all expectations but perfectly consistent with the current football season, the Williamson rating system came through with the admirable winning percentage of 87.5 last Saturday. The season percentage is 87.7 which includes 820 winners out of 937 games.

So as teams turn toward their next games, Louisiana State University rates sixth, S. M. U. seventh, Rice ninth and Georgia 10th in the nation. Other southern teams that rate high in the system include North Carolina, 12th; Auburn, 14th; Duke, 23d; Mississippi State, 25th, and Alabama, 35th.

So Georgia, 10th ranking team in the nation, plays Alabama's eleven, ranked 35th, in an important game Saturday at Athens.

There seems to be one inconsistent rating. For Tech, winner over Duke in one of the year's greatest upsets, is rated 65th.

These ratings represent respectively each team's efficiency of consistent performance to date. The ratings do not always indicate a direct gauge of the possible strength of each team. The final ratings of the completed season, however, will in most instances pretty nearly show a 10 per cent measure of the strength of the respective teams. The percentage below (right-hand column) are the most important. The listing figures (left-hand column) are merely for convenience in giving the fractional difference in order.

Do not get too excited about smaller teams sometimes being rated over teams with names for traditional football greatness. Each team gets a rating for each of its games. Each rating in the table below is the current average of the game ratings for each respective team. Under the Williamson method the teams of the nation are divided into eight classes, the start of each class being the 10th team in the nation.

As the season progresses, naturally some teams will earn a higher classification, others a lower one. There is an upper limit of scoring credit against each team. A team that has won 100 games and lost 100 to 0 against a Class 8 team than to make 50 to 0. On the other hand, it is especially in early season that a team can make a big jump into Class 1. In general, however, smaller teams have a schedule over their heads.

"I would like to keep the same club intact," Eddie said, "but it will be impossible to do this for the reason that the Southern league has a ruling whereby each team must carry six B men."

"Well, unfortunately, we have only three B men on our club at the present time. They are Johnny Hill, Gerald Lipscomb and Lefty Williams. All the pitchers with the exception of Williams are A men. So we must get rid of some players. I regret that I must be done. Because I think that the same club that won the pennant last year would make a fine showing in the pennant race next year."

Eddie lauded the spirit of the Atlanta players and gave them the entire credit for winning the pennant. He expressed the thought that the Shaugnessy system robbed them of their chance to win the Dixie Series.

"BOYS TIRED." "Those two play-offs took a lot out of the boys, who had battled all season long to win in the regular schedule of games."

INSTALLMENT I.

Sophia Fiddle, head of the Lorian orphanage for more than 25 years, smiled whimsically at the card marked "Sugar Fiddle."

Then the sense of humor that had kept her in hot water with the board of directors ever since, at 35, she had taken charge of one of the largest orphanages in the state of Virginia, caused her to chuckle aloud. Such a name to hand a poor, innocent, defenseless baby! Suddenly she sobbed and read further, in her own file marked "Private."

"Sugar Fiddle, Age 17. (Name and parents unknown.) Found on our doorstep by Dr. Harvey Slemg, June 24, 1917. Believed about a week old. Red curly hair. Brown eyes. Height 5 feet 2 inches. Weight 110. Obedient hard working, exceptionally bright and lovable. Would make excellent nursemaid. Loves children—and they love her."

For years now no one had called spinsterish Sophia Fiddle anything but "Mother Fiddle." At least no one at the orphanage. Sophia had never objected because it seemed to make the little ones feel closer to her and more as though they belonged to someone.

Love had never come to tell, angular, plain Miss Fiddle. So, in her great heart she had made a special place for every one of the children that had passed in and out of the door of the old red brick Lorian orphanage since she had become matron. She remembered, as though it had been yesterday, how the little red-headed, roly-poly baby with the great solemn blue eyes happened to be called "Sugar Fiddle." How, when Dr. Slemg came running to her with the little mite in the market basket, she had picked it up and said, with her heart aching with pity, "Hello, Sugar."

"That's a good name for her," Dr. Slemg had laughed in his quiet way. "Sugar! I'll do very well till some one comes along to claim her and give her back her own name."

But no one had ever come. And when Sugar was 4 or 5 and began to wonder why other boys and girls had two names and she had only one, Mother Fiddle had to think fast one day when she asked her about it. "Your last name?" Mother had picked her up and kissed the solemn little plump face. "Why you're my little baby, aren't you? My name is Fiddle, so yours must be, too. You're Sugar Fiddle. And don't let any one tell you differently."

It had seemed to satisfy the child and from then on she had boasted proudly, "My name's Sugar Fiddle."

Mother Fiddle looked out the window and over to the playground where dozens of little blue-uniformed children laughed and played, with Sugar Fiddle in two long lines and marched toward the orphanage at their head. It was the only way to keep the little ones off the flower beds.

When a little later a knock came on the door, Sophia Fiddle fought to keep the anxiety out of her face when Sugar came in. She had something to tell her and it was going to be no easy job.

Sugar burst in, striding in great long strides, and stood at salute before Mother's desk.

"Colonel Fiddle begs to give the evening report, ma'am."

A little of the sorrow left Sophia's young blue eyes and she bowed her head and said gravely, "Yes, ma'am."

"Colonel Fiddle may proceed," she said with mock gravity.

Sugar stroked her chin solemnly, but her brown eyes shot little sparks of gaiety.

"I counted noses—clean and not so clean, ma'am—and all are accounted for. One hundred and seven—right of them. All seem in good health and spirits. There were only a few riots and they were settled without calling in the marines."

"Pinky White tore his pants again. I'll sew them after he goes to bed tonight. You know how Willie Beasley stutters. Well, I caught Pinkie over in a corner trying to teach him to stutter a perfect hoarse word. When I chased Pinkie he caught his pants on a nail in the fence. On the top—going over toward town."

Mother chuckled.

"So what would you suggest we do to Pinkie, Colonel Fiddle?"

Sugar wrinkled her nose in deep thought, and stroked her chin again. "Well," she drawled finally, "it might be feasible to leave the raisins out of the young man's rice pudding tonight and substitute a large spoonful of sugar. Both cats are able to go into convulsion on that."

"Don't you mean," Sophia made a face, "we'd better go into convulsions on that?"

Sugar laughed happily, and gave up her official pose to sit on Mother's desk.

"Consolation," she hugged her knees comfortably, "is Pinkie's own word. He went into convulsion last week over whether he and Duke Jones were to take the appendix out of the black cat or the yellow one. Due to my having sharp ears, both cats are able to be up and about, and take nourishment."

It was a relief to laugh and Sophia gave way to her laughter, until the tears ran down her cheeks. She felt a little hysterical. It wasn't so much what Sugar said as the way she said it. She was a born comedian, with that little gurgle of laughter always at the bottom of her voice, and her habit of saying everything in one breath.

Mother Fiddle decided she could not tell Sugar what was on her mind just then, when she seemed so gay. Besides it would spoil her supper. So in a little while she got up and gave her favorite orphan a quick kiss on the cheek.

"You run along and eat," Mother turned to her files again. "And after you put into consolation last week over whether he and Duke Jones were to take the appendix out of the black cat or the yellow one. Due to my having sharp ears, both cats are able to be up and about, and take nourishment."

"I'd love that," Sugar swung down from the desk. "We'll dish dirt. I know some new scandal. It's about the new cook, Euphrasia, and George Washington Lee, the gardener. She gives him pie."

"Oh!" Sophia tried to look shocked. "I'll have to look into such goings on and see what his intentions are. Hurry along now."

After the door closed mother's heart felt bitter. Life was so much easier for people who could laugh easily and

EGYPT'S BOOK OF THE DEAD.

III—Dangers Along the Way.

Great were the dangers to spirits on their way to the Hall of Truth, as told in the Book of the Dead.

After leaving the mummy, the spirit went west. Charms were used so the person would not lose his way. He had to pass "lakes of fire," and there could drink. If a wicked person took the water, it began to boil and would scald his throat.

A man who knew the magic words could change his form as he went along. At one time he might be a golden hawk, and at other times a heron, a swallow, a crocodile, a snake or a lily.

We read of a magic boat "in which to sail over the northern heavens," and of "boats of the sunrise and sunset" as well. Though the journey started westward, the spirit at length reached the Mountain of Sunrise, and saw the Morning Star. Looking between two sycamore trees, he beheld the sun-god.

Before entering the Kingdom of Osiris, the spirit had to pass through a gate, the entrance to one of Seven Great Halls. Though, he gave the name of the porter, the watchman and the messenger. This also had to be done before going into the other halls.

In speaking of a dead person, Egyptian priests called him by different names. One name was "Ka," and two others were "Ba" and "Khu." Some scholars translate "Ka" as "double" while "Ba" is taken to mean "spirit." In these stories we are using the word "spirit" as a general name.

Later we shall see what the Book of the Dead declares was the fate of spirits after they reached the Hall of Truth.

Association President Attacks 'Unsound and Insolvent' Groups.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 22.—(AP) President Joseph L. Galen, of Philadelphia, attacked what he termed "unsound and insolvent" burial associations in an address today before the National Funeral Directors' Association convention.

Galen recommended establishing a permanent fund by the association to combat competition from this source. "During the past three years," Galen asserted, "I have observed that almost every state south of the Mason-Dixon line has been overrun with burial associations that were unsound, insolvent and acted as a device of unfair competition to funeral directors."

"At first it was a difficult task to convince some leaders of these southern associations that they should fight these rackets. As a result of our aggressive prodding in this section, the states of Georgia and Florida have fortified themselves against further encroachments and inroads."

4-YEAR-OLD MURDER

DANVILLE, Va., Oct. 22.—(AP) A bizarre tale of murder at midnight and a man's corpse, garbed in a black evening gown, was told in a confession to Chief of Police J. H. Martin here today.

Chief Martin said that a woman giving the name of Mrs. May Garland Adams, about 30 and attractive, confessed the murder of Alfred Rudisill, whose strangely dressed body was found in a warehouse at Charlotte, N. C., four years ago. Chief Martin said that he talked by telephone with Charlotte authorities and corroborated many facts as told him by the woman. Her confession was sworn to before a magistrate.

In custody of Detective Lieutenant Stanhope Lindenberg and Detective W. H. Hopyeunt, of Charlotte, she was returned there tonight.
